Hunting Season Indefinitely Closed

Falem, Ore., Aug. 28.—Governor Withycombe today issued a proclamation closing the hunting season in Oregon indefinitely because of the daily increasing loss due to forest fires. While many of the fires are said to be incendiary, it is believed many have been started from camp fires, or from use of fire arms in the timber. A previous order of the governor closed the season from August 21 to September 1.

It was said at the executive office today that the lives of soldiers patrolling the forests are endangered to some extent because their khaki uniforms make them mistakeable for deer.

Women Physicians Want Commissions In Army

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—A campaign to obtain army commissions for women physicians engaged in military work was launched here last night by the California Organization for Federal Recognition of women Physicians.

Women physicians are at present only eligible to be contract surgeons in the army, according to Dr. R. B. Cunningham, one of the leaders in the movement; and they can not be commissioned in the medical reserve corps unless by act of congress.

Forest Notes

Forty six Meszamas attained the summit of Mt. Jefferson during their two weeks outing on the Santiam National Forest. Their headquarters camp was located at Pamela Lake.

Electric storms started 350 fires on the National Forests of California in July.

The National Forests are open to the free use of the public for hunting, fishing and camping. Observance of the State game laws, and care with fire and camp sanitation are the only restrictions placed on sportsman.

The Eagle Creek camp and picnic ground on the Oregon National Forest are attracting more than 2000 visitors weekly.

The Forest Service cooperates with State and County officials in stocking lakes and streams with game fish. Rangers have packed small fish on horse back forty miles into the mountains and released them in the streams with very little loss.

The National Forests of Oregon and Washington have furnished grazing range for 1,200,000 head of sheep during the present season.

The Denny Creek camp grounds on the Siskiyou National Forest, near Siskiyou Pass, have just been opened by the Forest Service. More than a thousand tourists have already registered there.

The Osborne fire finder used by the Forest Service makes it possible to locate a forest fire with considerable accuracy from a single lookout station, when a good topographic map of the region is available.

Klamath Falls, Or., Aug. 27.—County aid has been solicited for the search of Horace Marshall, of Klamath Agency, lost in the Red Bluff district near Union Peak, 10 days ago. His tracks have been found and many men have gone from Klamath Falls to search for the man. Marshall is fifty years of age, a veteran of the Spanish American war and is employed as an engineer at the Klamath Indian Training school. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias.

Millions Taken From Nations Sugar Bill

Washington, Aug. 27.—An agreement by the country's beet sugar producers to limit the price of their product so as to affect a reduction of about one-half cent a pound in the present prices of sugar has been announced by the food administration, with a notice to the public that this should mean a saving of $30,000,000 between now and the first of next year.

Bandon has plan to bond city to start shipyard.
Portland—Spruce contracts let, Oregon mills to furnish material for airplanes price $105 per thousand.

Gold Beach—Due to great demand for food and small salmon catch Oregon fish cannery and fishermen ask longer season.

Filipinos Are Lazy.

The Filipino strikes me as unbearably lazy. He has had roads built for him, schools run for him, good government and peace secured to him and an unusual measure of confidence placed in him. He has graduated from almost no clothes into spotless white, with patent leather "kicks," a clean shirt and a resplendent tie, so that he looks like the swell member of a pair of black face comedians. He has had "sitting down" jobs created or discovered for him and has taken with remarkable alacrity to the ice cream soda habit, just like any other cultured being. He has learned to speak English very well and has been trained into a really good athlete. But, as far as I can see so far, he is not much changed since the days when he dawdled into school, followed by a servant to carry his books and ink bottle. I doubt very much whether he will work as hard or as intelligently to make something of himself and the islands as Uncle Sam has worked for him.—Christian Herald.

Northcliffe's Test.

In Everybody's Magazine Isaac F. Marcosson furnishes a concrete incident which explains in a manner Lord Northcliffe's wonderful success as a journalist. It shows why Northcliffe and his ramified interests have forged ahead:

He once met a subeditor in the corridor of the London Mail building and asked him how he was getting along.

"Splendidly, thank you," was the reply.

"How long have you been with me?"

"Six months, my lord."

"What money are you getting?"

"Seven pounds a week."

"Are you happy and contented?"

"Yes, but I have lots of leisure."

"Then you are not the man for me I don't want any member of my staff to be happy and contented on 17 a week."

He himself has never been content with man or machine when he could get a better one.

Cadets of Switzerland.

Although no Swiss is legally liable for military service until the year in which he reaches the age of twenty, nevertheless a very large number of boys begin at the age of twelve to train as cadets and learn to carry and use rifles and to drill. These boys are supplied with their rifles by the government, but keep them at home and are responsible for having them always in proper condition. Should a rifle be found on inspection not to have been properly cleaned the boy's parents are liable to a heavy fine, and should this neglect occur a second time the boy may be punished by being dismissed from the cadet corps, this naturally being a disgrace from which every boy shrinks. These cadets all wear uniforms, which are supplied by the parents or, if the latter be in poor circumstances, then by the cadet corps association. Some of these Swiss cadets now have even light artillery.

The Girl Who Fusses.

The fussy girl sat next us in the car this morning. And she fussed and she fussed and she fussed. She settled herself three times, hunched up her right shoulder, took off her right glove and patted her hair, pulled the back of her collar into shape, shrugged up her left shoulder, pulled off her left glove and patted her hair, pushed her hat a little more to one side and put on both gloves, patted her hair and crossed her right ankle over her left, squared both shoulders and patted her hair, settled herself in a new position and pulled her coat down at the waist, patted her hair, surveyed her nose in the tiny glass at the bottom of her bag and patted her hair, pulled her hat a wee bit more to one side and reversed her ankles, then began at the top of her program and repeated it.—Worcester Post.

Her View of It.

A certain lady attempted to open an account at a department store. The store asked her for a reference, and she named Coutts' bank.

Coutts' bank, on being appealed to, replied that as a credit proposition the lady was an uncertain and even dangerous risk, and accordingly the department store wrote to her:

Madam—We regret to say your reference is unsatisfactory.

To this the lady wrote back:

You certainly surprise me. I always considered Coutts' bank a most respectable and solid institution.

Virtue and Immortality.

Men passionately desire to live after death, but they often pass away without noticing the fact that the memory of a really good person always lives. It is impressed upon the next generation and is transmitted again to the children. Is not that an immortality worth striving for?—Kropotkin.

Grease on White Goods.

To remove cream spots from embroidered centerpieces or dollies dampen the spot with liquid ammonia, then lay a fresh piece of blotting paper over it and iron lightly. This treatment will remove any grease from white goods.

Judge C. C. Goodwin Dies In Salt Lake

Salt Lake City, Aug. 27.—Judge C. C. Goodwin, editor and author and for 21 years, from 1880 to 1901, editor-in-chief of the Salt Lake Tribune, died at his home Saturday after an illness of several months. He was born in Riggs, near Rochester, N. Y., April 4, 1832. His grandfather fought under George Washington while his own father served through the War of 1812. Judge Goodwin was identified with the early mining days in California and Nevada. He was elected one of the first district judges when Nevada was admitted to statehood.

Blaze Laid To I. W. W. Destroys Lumber Mill

Cottage Grove, Or., Aug. 28.—It is thought that I. W. W. are responsible for a fire last night which completely destroyed the mill and lumber yard of the Brown Lumber company, destroyed one building of the Oregon Pacific & Eastern railway and for two hours endangered the plant of the Cottage Grove Electric company, which was several times in flames. The fact that the flames burst forth at almost the same moment from several parts of the mill and yards leads to the belief that the fire was the result of incendiarism.

The feed wire for the city's electric lighting system is down and the city is without lights. Other industries of the city are being carefully guarded against firebugs. The loss by the fire is placed at $750,000.
