Oregon Boy Beats Draft

Albany, Or., Oct. 1—Typical of the spirit displayed by many men now enlisting is that shown in a postcard received by County Clerk Russell here yesterday from William Robert Morarity. Brief and to the point it reads as follows:

"Wish to inform you that I am now a member of the 136th Machine Gun Battalion, Ohio Company I, stationed here, Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala., so therefore cannot answer any summons on next draft as I will probably be in France by that time (hope so.) My home is at Lebanon, Or. I registered at Cincinnati, O."

Gasoline Fumes Overcome Ill- The Girl In Garage.

Oregon City, Oct. 2—While P. M. Hart was at work in his garage yesterday his 3-year-old daughter, Vivian, playing about the place, was overcome by the gasoline fumes from a machine in which the motor had been left running. The fumes overcame the youngster and for some time she was unconscious. Mr. Hart discovered the condition of the child in time to administer first aid and probably thereby saved her life.

The Appearance of Radium

The Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, has received many inquiries about the appearance of radium, many of which seem to be prompted by careless stories, appearing in periodicals of the poorer class, that tell of remarkable finds of nearly pure radium.

Radium is a metal, and has a white metallic lustre; it has been isolated only once or twice, and few people have seen it. Radium is ordinarily obtained in the form of salts, and is usually so sold and used. These salts are all white or nearly white substances whose appearance is no more remarkable than that of common salt or baking powder. Radium is found in nature in quantities so exceedingly small that it is never visible even with the aid of a powerful microscope.

Ordinarily radium ore carries only a small fraction of a grain of radium per ton of material, and radium will never be found in large masses because it is formed by the decay of uranium, a process that is wonderfully slow, and radium itself decays and changes to other elements so rapidly that it is impossible for it to accumulate naturally in visible masses. Radium and radium minerals are not generally luminescent. Tubes containing radium glow from impurities present which the radiations from the radium cause to give light.

Minerals that carry radium are fairly easy to determine, for they affect photographic films in the same way as ordinary light, and they can also be identified by their effect upon electroscopes.

Potatoes at High Altitude.

Bend, Or., Oct. 1—Potatoes at an altitude of about 6000 feet near Paulina Peak, were brought to town yesterday from the home of Fred Shintaffer, at East Lake. Along with turnip seed they were planted as an experiment last spring and produced a fairly good crop.
