The extraordinary shape, huge size, and vast power of the big devilfish, or manta, give him an evil reputation, which is heightened by his black color-A queer peculiarity of this coloring is that the black pigment comes off on anything touching it. Kneeling on one of the devillish when it was drawn up on the sand I arose with my knee oletely blackened. The skin is not only very tough, but is also very rough, being covered, like that of an old shark, with dermal denticles which scarify the skin if a naked arm or leg is drawn across it. The big mouth is practically toothless, entirely so as regards the upper jaw, while the lower jaw has a small deutal plate which differs in the two sexes. In spite of its size the manta is in no way dangerous to man unless attacked, but when harpooned its furious energy, tenacity of life and enormous strength render it formida- that he was "crooning to himsel"," she ble, for it can easily smash or overturn a boat which is clumsily handled, and | in the fields at a distance, where she if the ropes foul an accident is apt to occur.-Theodore Roosevelt in Scrib-

One Armed Daly.

Among Americans who have achieved athletic prominence, though minus an arm or leg, Hugh Daly, the phenomenal one armed pitcher for the Cleveland National league team in the early eighties, is perhaps the best known. The older generation of baseball fans remember Daly's pitching was unusually "classy." The records show that in 1883 he pitched a no hit game against Philadelphia, and the next year he established an average strike out record for one season that still holds good.

During that year he took part in fiftyfour games and struck out 464 batsmen, giving him an average of .850 per cent. The nearest approach to this record was that of the late Rube Waddell, who pitched thirty-nine games in 1914, fanned 323 batters and made a percentage of .830,-Exchange.

The Rocking of Lake Erie.

The 250 mile trough of Lake Erie es approximately in the direction of the west to southwest winds which prevail in that part of the country. Thus the lake offers an excellent opportunity for studying the effects of the wind upon a large body of inclosed water, and very interesting these effects sometimes prove. Rhythmic gusts produce a rocking motion, and great blows from the west or southwest sweep the liquid body of the lake eastward and sometimes cause a rise of eight feet or more at Bullalo in the course of a few hours. As soon as the maximum force of the gale has passed the water swings back. Con-tinued rockings are observed on days when the strength of the wind fluctu-

There is no way of proving cost results except through the general ledger, and since figures not known to be accurate are worse than worthless, being dangerous because misleading, it naturally follows that without adequate general ledger control the cost system is a menace to those who rely upon it.-Stephen Gilman in Industrial Management.

Splendid Test of Patriotism. One of the most remarkable subscrip tions ever raised in Great Britain was the one initiated by Pitt in 1799, in which year England rejected Napo leon's proposals of peace. Pitt appealed to all who could afford it to contribute voluntarily toward the expenses of the war. It was a splendid test of patriotism. Over £2,000,000 was actually raised in this way-a much more imposing sum than it looks when one considers that the population, largely poverty stricken, was then only about one-fifth its present size.-Lon don Chronicle.
