Alaska Registrants Can Enlist.

Under the official ruling, the regulations prohibiting draft registrants in the current quota from enlisting as volunteers in the Navy or Marine Corps, or from being voluntarily inducted into the Army, will not apply to Alaskan registrants for the present. They may volunteer in any branch of the service that is open to induction or enlistment. The ruling follows:

"Inasmuch as no drawing has taken place in Alaska and no numbers have been assigned Alaskan registrants, and since communication by mail with local boards is practically impossible, the provisions of the regulations relating to the voluntary induction into military service and enlistment in the Navy or Marine Corps of such registrants are not applicable.

STUFF HEROES ARE MADE OF

Young South Dakotan Gives Up Business and Family of Four Youngsters to Join the Army.

The Charlotte Observer is in receipt of a letter from a gentleman in South Dakota, inclosing a check and asking that the Observer be mailed to him as long as the South Dakota troops are at Camp Greene, as he has a son in the One Hundred and Forty-seventh field artillery. The father wrote:

"I have a son in the One Hundred and Forty-seventh field artillery, Forty-first division, Camp Greene. You will also see his name on the heading of this letter. I miss him very much, as I depended very much on him in the business and expected in my declining years to turn the whole business over to him. But his country called him. He was a West Pointer, but had resigned to help me. He has a wife and four little ones at home. Look him up and give him my love. Give us all the Camp Greene news you can of his regiment or battery."

He has a wife and four little ones, but his country called him and he heard and heeded. It is of such stuff that heroes are made.

Speeding Up Lumber Business.

From log to lumber is a rapid transformation after the log is fished from the pond, hauled up the log slip and thrown on the skid, off which it rolls on to the carriage, where it is turned into correct position by the "stern nigger," fastened on the carriage, and cut into shape and form for use by the big saws, of which there are three kinds, band, circular and gang, a process which requires but a few minutes. Half an hour later the lumber is in the dry kiln, or, if timbers have been cut, they are waiting on the timber docks, ready for loading on freight cars.

Reports received at the offices of the Southern Pine association show that a majority of mills are now handling the government's war business on a six-day schedule. This is, within a week from the time a government order is received, the trees have been cut from the forest, hauled to the mill, manufactured, kiln-dried if necessary, placed on freight cars and delivered to points of destination.

Tobacco and Food Crops.

The cultivation of tobacco in the valley of the Connecticut river has been said to have "robbed the neighboring fields of half their growth." Many a farmer in western New England who, 40 years ago, relied on this district for his cattle feed, must now pay high prices for grain raised a thousand miles away. Incidentally the giving up of so much of the most fertile land in New England to the cultivation of a non-essential has materially contributed to the high price of milk. Now, however, the raising of tobacco in New England is on the decline, and this year many of the fields which were formerly given over to the cultivation of that product has been used for raising more useful crops.

To Put It Mildly.

There was a crash of glass out in the hall, and we went out to see what had occurred. When we arrived, the glass was there, some innocent bystanders were there, but there was no visible victim.

"What happened?" we asked.
"Bill was coming along the hall, and his foot slipped, and he plunged forward and stuck his head right through that glass door!"
"Well, where's Bill?"
"In the next room being plastered up."
"Was he cut much?"
"Well, his face wore an injured expression."—Exchange.

BALLOON LIKE BIG TADPOLE

Latest French Aircraft for Observation Purposes Requires Fifty Men to Manoeuvre It.

Among the latest triumphs of the French aerial service is an observation balloon, named "Le Capot," writes a Paris correspondent. In shape it resembles a great tadpole. Whereas other types are inconvenienced by a wind of from 50 to 55 feet a second, "Le Capot" can remain in the air unless the wind exceeds 65 to 75 feet per second.

It takes 50 experienced men to manoeuvre it, for as soon as it leaves the shed great attention must be paid to the wind currents, so as to save the envelope from being torn. Attached to the balloon is a wicker car, in which the observer is installed with his maps, charts, arms, barometers, and telephone, the latter fixed over his ears so as to leave his hands free. He is also provided with glass and a white silk parachute for an emergency.

When the balloon attains an altitude of from 2,000 feet to 3,000 feet the windlass to which the cable is fixed is drawn by horses or motor car at a moderate pace to a point near the enemy lines, where a refuge excavated in the soil has been prepared. This accomplished, the observer transmits his instruction by telephone.

Two anti-aircraft posts are established nearby to keep off enemy airplanes. If the balloon is menaced the crew bring it down from 5,000 feet in seven to ten minutes.

FINDS BULLETS IN THE BODY

Electro Magnet, Proves of Value in Canadian Hospitals Along the Lines of Battle.

A sound "very much like the whistle of a steamboat" in a stethoscope placed on the patient's skin in the manner in which an electro magnet tells the position of a bullet in a wounded soldier's body, according to Surgeon General Fotheringham of the Canadian army medical service.

The new magnet has been found to be of great value in a large number of the Canadian hospitals in the battle zones, as with it the exact location of any electro magnetic substance, including the German bullet, can be determined. An easily discernible vibration is set up by the magnet when the bullet is not deep-seated.

In cases of deeply imbedded bullets the electro magnet is placed on one side of the patient's body and a stethoscope is moved about on the side opposite the magnet. The nearest point to the foreign body is indicated by the "steamboat whistle" and the skin is marked at that point. The operation for extracting the bullet follows.

Glass Eye That Moves.

Capt. J. L. Aymard, a British army surgeon, describes in the Lancet an improved glass eye which can move. The chief drawbacks to the ordinary glass eye are that, being simply a convex shell of glass, it tends to sink back into the socket and is fixed in a stony stare. Captain Aymard gets over these difficulties by placing in the socket of the eye a sphere of living cartilage or gristle taken without risk from the patient's ribs. It is all one operation. While one surgeon removes the destroyed eye, another surgeon removes the pieces of cartilage from near the patient's breastbone. Two pieces are made into a little globe, which is placed in the socket, and the thin outer covering of the eye, the conjunctiva, is sewn over to hold it in place. The ordinary glass eye shell is inserted over this and is prevented from sinking backwards. Some movement of the eye by the wearer is said to be possible.

Kate Field's Prophecy.

When, a good many years ago, Kate Field wrote those clever verses beginning: "They talk about a woman's sphere as though it had a limit," little she guessed how tremendously that sphere was destined to be enlarged by the coming of the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventeen. As a matter of course, observes an exchange, the great world war is responsible for the very rapid advance the women are making in every sphere of the world's work. We are no longer surprised to find that women are doing anything and everything that men can do, from driving warplanes to shining shoes. A shoe-polishing "parlor" in which only women are employed is now doing business in Boston, yet even this innovation scarcely challenges attention in these times of shifting conditions.

Tempting Natives to Work.

Tempting natives of British New Guinea to work was a process which was explained during the hearing of a case in London recently. A man who has lived many years there said that he had solved a very difficult labor problem in New Guinea. The men could not be tempted to work for money, and he hit upon the idea of fering them beads, gaudy cloths, dogs' teeth and musical instruments. To get these they worked for a twelvemonth and then induced others to do likewise.

Maize From Venezuela.

As a result of a suggestion from the American consulate, based upon the higher prices for maize in the New York market than in Venezuela, shipments of maize from Venezuela to the United States have been undertaken for the first time on record, and already 80 tons have been sent. If present New York prices hold until the new crop of maize comes in there may be large shipments, as the crop is ex-

Satan's Power Soon

At An End.

(Communicated by S. K.)

The long dark day is fast closing—in which Satan has had the power over man and beast. In which he has wrought havoc over all the earth. But his day is now almost done—and closing with a disastrous ending. He knows the end of his power is nigh—when he shall be bound by the One whom he hates—and the One whom he would have bound for all time—Jesus of Nazareth.

A dark cloud rising as incense over the Temple of God. But from the sinful world comes this dark cloud—not of innocent beasts—but the cloud of sin which has become so adherent within these last days—that God can look upon it no longer.

Man in the Garden of Eden preferred man power—and he has held to it hoping to win out and gain the victory over the world—but before the end of this great tribulation he will decide he is a very weak vessel in the hands of God.

Man can never accomplish peace in this World War that now is spreading over the earth for we see he fails in every attempt and it grows worse and worse. It will take a Supreme power now to stay the hand of destruction. God has said it and there is no use of us trying to add or take from his words for we can never twist it to fit in our groove. Let us take him for what he says—"If he does not shorten this fearful conflict there will be no flesh living on the earth." (Come quickly Lord Jesus!)

What a glorious day will dawn upon us when Christ frees us from sickness, sorrow, pain and death, and the day is almost here—a few years at most—for the happenings that we find in the Prophets are coming to pass very rapidly. Christ sends at our very door and will soon be our King for a thousand years. (Read Rev. 20.) Be ye ready and hail his coming with cheering and pleasure. Bow not your head in sorrow as those who die with out hope of a resurrection—but raise your heads and rejoice that our redemption draweth nigh. Be ye ready when the Bridegroom comes—meet him with your lamps trimmed and burning and enter into the Pearly Gates of the New Jerusalem. For His feet shall stand on the Mount of Olives and he with his heavenly host will rise upon white horses down into Jerusalem and take the Throne of David for a thousand years. All nations will flow unto Him to worship him. He will rule this world by His love, sin and hatred will vanish before him and we shall follow in His steps and sing praises unto Him, and help him in his work of purifying the world. At the end of the thousand year day—or the Judgment Day—when he has his books all squared up with mankind he will hand them over to God the Father and God will descend to earth and reign among men.

A pessimist injects the maldenizing thought; how can they play bridge whilst and knit at the same time without tramping their partner's ace, or something?

"Bring us a strong peace," shout the Berliners to Von Kuehlmann as he started for the front to negotiate with the Bolsheviks. A strong peace for Germany means the taking of all the Russian territory the Germans can grab.

If all the world were bolshevik the kaiser would not need to make war in order to carry out his conquests.

Charles Schwab forgot he owed $2,000,000. Right careless of Charley. We will accept a peace "made in Germany"—but not by Germans.

The Russians won't let the Germans kill them, but they don't mind killing themselves.
