Alias Summons.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF JACKSON.

Elizabeth May Colby, Plaintiff,

Charles D. Colby, Defendant.

SUIT IN EQUITY FOR DIVORCE.

To Charles D. Colby, Defendant:

IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON, you are hereby required to appear and answer the Complaint of the Plaintiff now on file against you in the above entitled Court and cause, within six weeks from the date of the first publication of this Summons, that being the time designated in the Order of Publication heretofore made and entered herein by the Honorable F. M. Calkins, Judge of the First Judicial District of Oregon, within which you shall be required to so appear and answer said Complaint, and you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said Complaint, or otherwise plead thereto within said time, Plaintiff will apply to the Court for judgment against you by default for the relief prayed for in her Complaint, solemnly stated as follows:

For and Order and Decree forever dissolving and setting aside the bonds of matrimony heretofore and now existing between the Plaintiff and Defendant, and decreeing the Plaintiff to be the owner of the following described property, situated and being in the County of Jackson, State of Oregon, to-wit:

Beginning 100 feet North of the Southeast corner of Block 39 of Galloway Addition to the town (now city) of Medford, Oregon, and running thence West 200 feet; thence North 65 feet; thence East 200 feet; thence South 200 feet to place of beginning, subject to one-half private alley eight (8) feet wide along the entire south side thereof, and for such other, further, and different relief as to the court may seem just and equitable in the premises.

This Summons is published and served upon you by publication under and by virtue of an order of the Honorable F. M. Calkins, Judge of the First Judicial District of Oregon, heretofore made and entered of record in said Court and Cause on the 10th day of May, A. D., 1919; the first publication of this Summons will be made on the 10th day of May, A. D., 1919.

Fine Chinook Salmon Caught by Women at Roseburg.

Roseburg, Or., May 7.—One of the finest chinook salmon caught here this spring was landed at the forks of the river by Mrs. Dean Dubar, wife of a local jeweler. The fish, which it took 35 minutes to land, weighed 32 pounds. The spring run of salmon is on in good shape, and the sportsmen are enjoying the pastime.

Boy Tries to Wreck Train.

Hood River, Or., May 8.—Attempted wreck of Mount Hood train for the past week was proved last night when Sheriff Johnson apprehended the youth to be the work of Tommy Van Horn, 13 year old boy. On four different days switch locks have been broken and on another occasion a steel rail was laid across the track. On Sunday a rail auto loaded with passengers barely missed derailling at a switch opened by the boy.

Watching with field glasses from a neighboring eminence Sheriff Johnson discovered the boy tampering with the track. The boy, whose father, a returned soldier, is working in a sawmill on the Washington side of the Columbia came here a weeks ago with his family.

Aerial Fire Patrol Will Start Next Month.

Sacramento, Cal., May 7.—Acting on orders from Washington, Adjutant T. S. Voss, of Mather field, is making arrangements for the daily patrol by airplanes of the national parks and forests of Northern California. He announced last night the service will begin June 1, and that two or three machines will be in daily use, a radius of 150 miles being covered. When fire is located the aviator will fly to the nearest station or settlement and drop a small parachute containing a message giving needed information to the forestry forces.

Infirm Taken to Church.

Eugene, Or., May 4.—For the first time in Eugene, furnishing free transportation for older members to and from church services was carried out today when the Methodist church sent several automobiles to the homes of the aged and infirm men and women to bring them to morning service and took them home again.

A committee was appointed a short time ago for this purpose. Today E. E. Rorapugh, C. F. Calkins, Mrs. H. A. Bowen, Mrs. B. F. Goodpasture, L. E. Fiegel and Richard Dixson furnished the transportation.

Orchard Sold; Home Purchased.

Hood River, Or., May 3.—A. G. Lewis, former director of the Apple Growers' association, who recently sold his interest in a 10-acre apple orchard on the East Side to his partner Frederick Brown, yesterday purchased from J. E. Robertson, former local lumberman who now resides in Portland, a large residence at the corner of Columbia and Terth streets. Mr. Lewis, and his wife, who is president of the Hood River Woman's club, will remove to the new property soon.

Grants Pass Soldier Boys are Entertained.

Grants Pass, Or., May 5.—The Grants Pass Red Cross chapter gave a reception in the court house on Friday evening to the returned soldiers and sailors of Josephine county. On each soldier and his sweetheart, and the father, mother, brother and sister of an allied country was pinned a tag, giving free admittance to the various forms of entertainment. About 150 soldiers and sailors were present, with a total attendance of about 1000.

Keeping a Diary.

Every once in a while we read of men who have kept diaries for years and years—since babyhood or longer. What a weird idea to be locked up in that relentless manner with the past! Only of course they don't really. They say they did, but they lie about it.

We saw one of these diaries once. Six months of it were filled with two entries repeated over and over: "Saw May;" "Did not see May." The last entry was "Married May."

That was the only sensible diary we ever saw, and we haven't a doubt in the world that it was all faked up afterward to jolly along May.—Los Angeles Times.

"Gude Tidins o' Muckle Joy."

The Scottish American reprints the story of the first Christmas in dialect from "The New Testament in Brail Scots," a translation by the Rev. William Wye Smith. Here are sample verses (Luke II: 10-12):

And the angel said, "Be na giff'd; for I bring ye gude tidins o' muckle joy to the ball world! For thar is born t' ye this day, in David's town, a Saviour, wha is the Anointed Lord. And here is the token for ye; ye'll fin' the

A BROKEN LIFE

By ALLEN CHAMPNEY.

"Miss Cayenne, you said?"

"Yes."

"Why the peppery name?"

"You would know if you spent an evening in her company! Rightfully she is Miss Naomi Winters, but in a casual way the other appellation has become common. You may wonder at it, for she is not only beautiful but rich. Her eccentricities are constant and numerous, and young as she is they say she has a satire and sarcasm at command that would make a star of an old Grecian pessimistic philosopher. Some deep disappointment must have ruffled the fair surface of her life, for she is a consistent man later and her apt ridicule of sham, pretense and affectation has not made her at all popular."

The speakers stood at a window of the lobby of the hotel at Walford, regarding a queenly appearing lady who was just passing by.

They casually discussed her and turned away, but a man of about thirty who had stood directly behind them moved closer to the window. There was something more than interest in his eyes as he remained staring blankly out on the street. He had become a guest at the hotel and registered as Randal Paxton that morning. At the end of a protracted reverie he turned away with a deep sigh.

The lady who was the object of all this attention was life in harmony, to outward seeing, with the designation that had been awarded her. Her face, though smileless, almost severe, was perfect in its contour. Her eyes, which at times were scornful or haughty, when in repose bore a half-hidden sadness that told of some secret sorrow.

A storm of censure and disapproval greeted her when she selected Alice Wade as her maid. A member of a family poor, obscure, the father of which was a drunkard, herself a deserted wife, Alice had been shunned, despised. With rare human pity Miss Winters took her up, lifting a depressed soul from gloom to sunshine and winning a devotion and love that was almost pathetic.

It was Alice who knew of countless deeds of charity done by her mistress in secret. It was she who knew that in her dark moody moments Miss Winters shut herself up in a room never visited by others. It was Alice who knew that her young mistress had loved and lost, embittering her life in the present.

The stranger at the hotel for three nights in succession passed some time in the vicinity of the house where Miss Winters lived. He was rather mysterious in his actions. He evaded pedestrians and never left his hotel during daytime. One evening he was near to the Winters' home, when Alice was hurrying towards the house. As she passed a hedge a rough looking man sprang into view and caught her arm.

"It's me, my pretty, your roving, unfortunate husband. I hear you've got a job where there's lots of money and jewels. You've got to get me some."

"I wouldn't give you a penny if you were starving!" protested Alice and broke away. The man started after her. Paxton intervened, knocked him senseless with a single blow, and hurried the girl homewards.

"There, you are safe," he said, "and if that miscreant troubles you again just call the police. Why! what is that?" as a thunderous sound emanated from the house, startling, alarming.

"Something has happened. Oh, my young mistress!" palpitated Alice, and she rushed into the house, followed by Paxton. Into the wing room Alice dashed. At its threshold for an instant Paxton paused. A part of the ceiling had fallen and Miss Winters lay insensible on the floor amid its debris. This was the room where Miss Winters spent so many hours of meditation in solitude. Upon a table in the corner was a framed photograph, markedly resembling the young man, some trifles of jewelry, a faded bouquet, evidently love mementos of a far past.

Paxton's face was colorless. He quivered like a strong tree shaken by a tempest as he lifted Miss Winters tenderly, carried her to a couch in the next room and telephoned for a physician. A great aspiration of relief swept his lips as an hour later Alice came to him and informed him that the doctor reported Miss Winters only temporarily stunned. Alice looked agitated as she glanced at the photograph and then at the stranger.

"You are the man!" she spoke in a low, intense tone.

"You mean, an old friend of Miss Winters, whom she has remembered?" replied Paxton. "Yes. I was her affianced husband. A scheming sister plotted to prove to me that she loved another. I left home a broken-hearted wanderer. Only a few months since I learned of the cruel conduct of my sister."

"Shall I tell Miss Winters this?" questioned Alice.

"If you will," and Alice went away and returned with a beaming face. "She knew all. She wishes to see you. Oh! make her happy, for I love her, even as you do," and leading Randal Paxton to the room where Naomi Winters awaited him, Alice closed the door after him, and those two, so cruelly parted, were reunited for all the future.
