PROPERTY CHANGES HANDS.

Ryan Building on California Street Sold to Zook.

Mr. Zook has been busily engaged the past week in removing one of the old Ryan buildings on California street, formerly occupied by the WoKee Laundry. Mr. Zook has recently purchased the building occupied by himself as a bicycle shop and will use the lumber obtained from the building being torn down to repair his building. The building being removed is one of the old landmarks of Jacksonville, having been erected many years ago. Its removal undoubtedly will improve the looks of California street very much. WoKee, the Chinese laundryman, who formerly occupied the building is now located in Medford.

GAGNON MILL BURNS

Saw Mill and Box Factory Burn To Ground

The sawmill and box factory at Medford, belonging to J. T. Gagnon was burned to the ground early Thursday morning. The fire also burned about 250,000 feet of lumber which was piled in the yards, causing a loss, it is estimated of $25,000. Insurance to the amount of $6,000 was carried on the outfit.

The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin, although Mr. Gagnon denies having any enemies. The authorities have not the slightest clue to the identity of the guilty parties; and the real cause will likely remain a mystery. The Medford fire department responded to the call, but on the way to the scene of the fire the motor truck went "hay-wire" and by the time the other truck could be brought into use the fire had gained such headway that the only course for the firemen to follow was to try to save the surrounding buildings and lumber.

SUNDAY MAKES HIT AT ASHLAND.

Noted Evangelist Holds Sunday Morning Services.

Ashland, July 21.—"A man without money, may be poor; but a man without nothing except money is poorer still," was an aphorism illustrating the text of Billy Sunday's discourse at Chautauqua on Sunday morning. The speaker began by depicting events during the Bohemian period and drawing a moral therefrom, but the major portion of his talk was in reviewing the ten commandments and emphasizing a plain interpretation thereof. Here it was that he doffed his coat, tossed his watch to Ma Sunday, and reinforced by a spiritual magnetism let loose a flood of sarcasm, invective, loyal utterance and prayerful pleading. It was a great reunion service, and the attendance was about on par with that at his address on the Friday evening previous. The song service was also inspiring, notably so when the old familiar selections were introduced, such as "Onward, Christian Soldiers," "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow," and "God Will Take Care of You," each of which prompted a chorus carrying a peak load of melodious refrain. A melodious refrain. A fitting climax to the service of song was Walter Jenkin in his rendition of "Face to Face" the words of faith and resignation blending with a superb vocal expression. The Camp Lewis Military quartet also reinforced the lectures and readings of Sunday afternoon and evening.

The aeroplane which was recently purchased by an organization of Medford men has arrived and started carrying passengers Wednesday afternoon. The plane which was only recently purchased at Sacramento, was driven from that city to Medford in five hours and five minutes. Three stops were made on the way to for fuel and food for the drivers.

The Medford boys in charge of the trip have made a record in being the first civilian plane to make the trip across the Siskiyou mountains under the same conditions.

They arrived at Medford in the morning and started early in the afternoon with carrying passengers on fifteen minute flights. A charge of eleven dollars, including the war tax, is made for each passenger.

The plane is a nice looking one and will be a great source of pride to the people of Medford and Jackson county. The owners plan to take the machine to Klamath Falls soon, to be gone for some time. Two government planes, in charge of Lieut. Kiel and Sergeant Frank McKee arrived at Medford about noon Wednesday on their way to Seattle.
