All the students from districts outside of No. 40 went home for the holidays.

HASH.

Lester Smith: "Lance has left his books here again. I do believe he would leave his head if it was loose."

Everett Smith: "I dare say you're right. I heard him say only yesterday he was going to Switzerland for his lungs."

Cecil (to Mr. Pernoll) "I say John, that can of oysters has'nt any oysters in it, only five."

Mr. Pernoll: "Well my little man, if you ordered dog biscuits, you wouldn't expect to find a dog in them would you?"

Mr. Cook: (in geometry) "Now then Leon suppose you had apples and you gave another boy his choice of them. You would tell him to take the bigger one wouldn't you?"

Leon: "No sir."
Mr. Cook: "Why not?"
Leon: "Wouldn't be necessary."

Mr. Mayban: "I am in need of a boy about your size. I would pay you five dollars a week."

Melvin Rowdick: "Will I have a chance to rise?"

Mr. Mayban: "Oh, yes; I want you to be here at four every morning."

Mr. Head: "Why do you wish to leave school and go to work when you are so young?"

Richard: "Its this way dad. School is going to be a tough place for the next few years, we shall have a new map to study and if we fail the teacher is likely to give us the Constitution of the League of Nations to learn by heart."

Mrs. James: (observing George putting sawdust on the steps to keep people from falling) "That's real benevolence."

"No it isn't" said George "its sawdust."

Mrs. Jordan (as Freemont entered the room somewhat bruised up) "I thought I told you to always count to one hundred before striking any one."

Freemont "That's what I did and see what Gene did while I was counting."

There are two little words, simple in themselves, that introduce untold trouble in the world and are responsible for more gossip, scandal and harm than any other two words in the English language. These two words are nothing more than, "They say." They have done more to ruin reputations than all other things. If you never quote what "They say" you may be quite certain you are not a gossip.

The progress of cities is measured by the public spirit of their inhabitants. Men whose only interest is in the success of their individual business may make more money for themselves, but they cannot build successful cities any more than a pile of stones can furnish sustenance for growing plants.

JITNEY LICENSE

GRANTED.

Interurban Autocar Co. to Install Service Between This City and Medford January 15.

The city council met in adjourned session at the city hall last night for the purpose of arranging for the licensing of an auto line to carry passengers, freight, etc., between this city and Medford. The mayor, all the members of the council, the recorder and the marshal were present.

Representatives of the Interurban Autocar Co. and the Star Taxi Co., both of Medford, were present and submitted proposals for the establishment of an auto service on a regular schedule. After considering the proposals offered, the council decided that it was to the interest of the city to accept the Interurban's proposition with some alterations.

Ordinance No. 1038, providing for the granting of one license for one year, at a fee of $100 per annum, was passed by the council and approved by the mayor.

A form of application to be executed by the applicant was adopted as was also a form for bond in the sum of $500.

The application and the ordinance granting the license will provide for at least eight round trips each day—one to be made after 6 o'clock P. M., one trip with truck for hauling baggage and freight is also to be made each day.

Passenger fares are to be 20 cents for one way and 35 cents for a round trip. Freight charges will be: packages up to 50 pounds in weight 15 cents; over 50 pounds and up to 250 pounds, 25 cents; over 250 pounds at 10 cents per cwt.

Ordinance No. 1039, granting license to the Interurban Auto Co. and directing recorder to issue same, was regularly introduced and passed its first and second readings and it is expected it will be finally enacted next Tuesday night. A number of prominent citizens were present at this meeting and seemed to be interested greatly in the proceedings.

The City Council will hold a meeting next Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing the new Council.

C.C. Pursell of Medford was in town this afternoon.

Henry Mankins has returned from a business trip in lower California.

"Deacon Wilcox", of Santa Rosa, Calif., arrived here this week for a visit with friends.

G. N. Lewis returned this week from a short visit in the Willamette valley.

Newton W. Borden of Medford was a visitor in town today.

ONE OF WAR'S MASTER MINDS

Britain Owes Deep Debt of Gratitude to Patrick Quinan, of Whom Little is Known.

One of the most vital and at the same time mysterious figures in the war on the British side was Patrick Quinan, an American of Irish descent. Vital because he planned all the great munition works which enabled Great Britain to supply not only her own but her allies' needs in munitions; mysterious because his name was never allowed to be mentioned during the war and because he would never be interviewed.

Mr. Quinan reached England by way of South Africa. Trained at du Pont's, he went to the South African Explosives company at Cape Town, then the largest in the British empire, owing to the demand for explosives for mining purposes. The vast factories laid out in England during the war—now somewhat of a white elephant, as their conversion to peace purposes is still unsettled—were all designed by Mr. Quinan.

Quinan is just over 40 years of age, and since the close of the war has disappeared. His name was never in any "honor list"—which is rather a distinction these times. He was never given any public recognition by any member of the government or the army. Still no one man did as much to help win the war as this retiring Mr. Quinan.

WAR TAUGHT HIM SOMETHING

Returned Doughboy Convinced, Among Other Things, That There is Little Gained in Kicking.

"There are thousands of returned soldiers to whom the war was a spiritual university," says Maude Radford Warren, in Everybody's. "They have won an understanding and a tolerance beyond their years. The best example I know is my friend Sidney, aged twenty-two, and endowed through the hard means of shot and shell with a maturity beyond his years."
"At home," Sid said, "I used to kick if things didn't go right. Well, sitting around in the mud over here I have begun to think a lot about some of the older people I know. They take things just as they come. I notice; don't kick much. Life seems to teach them that. Well, the war strikes me as just a lot of concentrated life. It's been that to me, anyhow. If ever I kick, it's sort of from force of habit. I honestly don't want to very much. I let the bad luck go with a grin, and if not, with set teeth, and I try not to count it at all. The good luck I count as clear velvet. It may not be a logical way of looking at life, but it's a practical way. Sitting here in the mud and getting old myself, I figure that is about the way the nice middle-aged people I know at home look at things. Being a good sport is about as good a thing as anyone can contribute to the world."

Rough on New Jersey.
Oliver Wendell Holmes' idea of New Jersey, New York's next-door neighbor, was that it was "a double-headed suburb, rather than a state."

EDITORIAL.

Zp boom!
The basket ball season is on!
Come all you people,
And see us play,
We're from Jacksonville,
You can tell our way.

The basket ball season is now on and the players are getting ready for the first game of the season.

If a player wishes to make the first team, he must cultivate stick-to-itiveness and keep in good practice all the time, no matter how gloomily his prospects are. Also he must, no matter how poor a player he is, never do any dirty playing or take unfair advantages of his opponent. Then whether he should get into the first team or not he will have the satisfaction of knowing that he played fairly and squarely without any underhanded methods.

Now that our Christmas vacation is over, we have come back to school with a new supply of energy. Let us not waste this energy. There is much work to be done, so let us, everyone, try to accomplish the most effective work possible. After our vacation we should feel like working in order to make up the time spent in resting.

THE SPIRIT OF THE SCHOOL.

The spirit of the school since vacation is over, is very strong; for in a little while we will play the first basket ball game of the season with an out side opponent. At present the spirit is of the right kind. It is the kind that will make the pupils work together for the good of the games and other school events, class work included.

Before now, there has been much dissention. The pupils would not work well together as was shown in the instance when the High School paper was in organization. Everybody wanted things his own way and as the saying is "A house divided against itself can not stand." So it was with our first staff. Now lets keep up the right spirit of the school in our work as well as in our games.

SPORTS.
It has been decided that the U. S. hall be used for playing basket ball. During the Christmas it was cleaned and fixed up; and the students had their first practice Monday evening. Friday evening the school team will play the town team, and a week from Friday they will play the Applegate team.

JOKES.

Mary had a little cold;
It started in her throat;
And every time she coughed cut loud
It nearly got her goat.
Our back bone is a useful thing
To fasten us together.
Our head sits on one end of it,
And we sit on the other.

Flora: "I am a strong believer in the transmigration of souls. In the 13th century my soul lived in the person of a knight named William."
Fred: "Oh that's nothing. I lived in the time of Cleopatra. I was then her lap-dog."

Mrs. Thompson: "So, Mrs. Luv, Paul is taking music lessons still."
Mrs. Lay: "He is; but they are not still."

AS OVERHEARD, BY THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Virginia Nunan is sick and not at home.

Wilma Bailey has moved to Algona, Oregon.

Inez Howard leaves Saturday for Glendale, Oregon, to live with her grandparents.

Margurite Sparks has composed a song that is to be sung at the next basket ball game.

Waiter: "How will you have your ham and eggs, Sir."
Mr. Godward: "Fresh."

Paul Luy (to the librarian) "Mother says I must read something deep, so give me 'Ten Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.'"

Miss Spulak—"Johnnie can you give me a sentence with 'defence' in it!"
Johnnie: "Yes'm De cat is on the fence."

Sometimes Medford has sunshine when Jacksonville has fog. But that's all right because at night when it has fog, we have moonshine.

Elva: "Oh Mother! look, the moon shone so bright last night that it has melted the snow."
