WORK.

When children have a certain amount of work to do, they are safe from the dangers that beset them when they are idle. Work fills the hours that would be wasted otherwise. If work is not over done (and there is seldom danger of that among high school students, especially) it is a pleasure, and helps to develop one's powers as long as he does not try to shirk his duties. If we had no work to do, we could not wish for a better fate than to have work given us, for idleness has made more criminals than any other vice. Idleness is really the mother of all vices. Hard work on the other hand, is not a curse but a blessing; and we can make the most of this blessing if we do our daily duties carefully and well. Work not only develops our physical being but our mental being as well. It causes us to think quickly and clearly and its activity should keep us happy. Work is a balm for discouragements, privations, and for sorrows great and small. The person who works and follows his or her laborious course not only helps himself, but helps to influence those around him to be honest, persevering and progressive. One person, though he did all, and knew all could not exist long alone—for to achieve the greatest success, one must strive and accomplish with others for others as well as for himself. We must work, therefore, while it is still day, not for the sake of self alone, but for the good of all.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Golda Boone spent the week end with her parents at Ruch.

Last Thursday the High School students and teachers made the second field trip of this year. This trip had for its goal an investigation of the processes and methods of drilling the Tugonia oil well near Phoenix. The students were taken to the oil well in three cars furnished by Mr. Godward, Paul Ager and Lewis Thompson. Every one was very much interested in the drilling process and expected momentarily to see the oil gush forth.

After several days absence on account of illness, Elva Coleman returned to school last Monday.

The exclusive French Club consisting of the following members: Paul Loy, James Gwin and Lewis Thompson, had its first meeting last Monday for an hour after school. "The Four Congregations" was the topic for discussion.

At Home or Abroad—the church stands back of civilization

THE Presbyterian Church has always been forward in evangelism and social service. It seeks to turn men to God and to uplift life in every community it touches.

Teaching and preaching amid the snows of the Arctic and the jungles of Africa—

Tending the sick on five continents—a colossal Samaritan ministering to suffering humanity in superstition-ridden regions, where the only hospitals are church-maintained—

Teaching India's millions to impound their waters against coming drought, showing Brazil how to plow its land, and combating Bolshevism in the mines, lumber camps, and congested areas of cities—

This is how the Presbyterian Church is helping to make a better world.

Every Presbyterian adherent is a partner in this magnificent enterprise. What can the church count upon from you in the financial canvass April 25 to May 2?
