Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. T. C.

The funeral services of John Neff, the young man who was killed Tuesday while at work in the Miller orchard near Jacksonville, were held at the home of his parents at Medford, Friday afternoon, Rev. Myron Boozer officiating. The young man was the son of Attorney and Mrs. P. J. Neff, one of Medford's best known families, and had been attending school in Los Angeles. Returning home for vacation he joined a thinning crew at the Miller ranch and had been working there but a short time when he met his death by falling from a tree on to the pruning shears, the blade penetrating his lungs, causing hemorrhages from which death soon resulted. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved parents.

Bell & Mankins Mine Looks Like Winner.

The Bell & Mankins mine in the Poorman creek district is now generally considered to be one of the most promising propositions developed here in recent years. Returns received from samples of quartz sent to Grants Pass to be assayed show one specimen to bear gold value of $27.58 per ton and a second assayed $100.87 per ton in gold alone. Messrs Bell & Mankins now have about 200 tons of quartz blocked out and about 20 tons more on the dump which they believe will average $40 to the ton. This quartz was taken from a vein or stringer located on a contact between porphyry and granite, which experienced miners claim is a most promising formation. The stringer varies in width from 2 to 18 inches and is steadily increasing in size as greater depth is gained. A 45-foot shaft has been sunk on the property and a tunnel run for a distance of 70 feet. This is a free milling proposition and Bell & Mankins are preparing to install a mill in the near future.

City Council Meeting.

A majority of the city "dads" were conspicuous by their absence at the monthly meeting of the city council held Tuesday evening. Mayor Britt, Councilmen McIntyre, Recorder Bagshaw and Marshal Venable being the only officials present. No new matter of importance came up at this meeting and aside from allowing the usual monthly bills but little business was transacted. It was decided to restrict the use of city water for irrigating purposes on property where there is no meter and a schedule was prepared which went into effect Thursday, July 8. On and after that date water users without meters are allowed to irrigate their lawns and gardens daily from 6 to 8 a. m. and 6 to 8 p. m. only. No restriction was placed on users provided with meters.

CHINESE TURNING TO SPORTS

Necessity for Physical Culture is Beginning to Be Recognized in the New Republic.

Physical culture and all types of athletics were, until very recently, held in contempt by the Chinese, and consequently the Shanghai boys did not know what the joy of indulging in baseball and other sports meant, says Boys' Life. Ages ago chariot driving, archery and the other classic sports played an important part in Chinese education. With the dawning of China's literary golden age, however, the scholars could not see how mental perfection could be attained if there was any thought of athletic prowess. Muscles and brawn, they said, belonged to the peasant, and the gentleman of culture should show his good breeding by a scholarly pallor, stooped shoulders and a general unhealthy appearance.

This attitude toward physical development persisted for centuries, and it has been only within the last few decades that interest has been roused in sports. With the introduction of new educational methods and the entrance of occidental theories into the orient, athletics once more came into their own and the Chinese student tucked up his cue and his dignity and went in for pole vaulting and hurdling.

China has now the idea that a nation's economic progress depends largely on the healthy bodies and minds of its citizens, and missionaries find little difficulty in winning subscriptions for athletic fields for the schools.

First Jap Woman Journalist.
The first Japanese woman to edit a woman's page in her country, Miyo Kohashi, is studying journalism at Columbia university in preparation for teaching journalism in the Tokyo Union college next year. A decade ago women journalists were unheard of and unthought of in Japan. Now many women are growing interested in the profession, but very few of them have had special training for the work. That is why Miss Kohashi is preparing to teach the subject. "Women in Japan are liking the newspaper profession," says Miss Kohashi, "and already in Tokyo we have a club of twenty women journalists." Miss Kohashi is the Japanese representative of an interesting group of women students of 33 nationalities who form the International Foyer of the Y. W. C. A. at Columbia university.

SEA FURNISHES MUCH FOOD

United States Has Perhaps the Most Valuable Fishery in Which All Coast States Share.

The United States has what is said to be the most valuable fishery in the world, but probably not one person in ten can name it. It is conducted in every seacoast state from Cape Cod to the Rio Grande, and from Puget sound up to San Francisco, and it yields annually about 115,000 tons of food as prepared for consumption, an equivalent of 400,000 dressed steers. It employs about 67,000 persons, and its annual product, as it comes from the water, is valued at over $15,000,000. There are other fisheries that possibly exceed it in the ultimate value of their products, but in such cases much labor and material and a heavy investment of capital have been concerned in manufacturing operations to prepare the product for the consumer; as, for example, the canned-salmon industry of the Pacific coast. The American fishery for codfish on the Atlantic coast, which has been the cause of much diplomatic discussion and of grave international negotiations, appears almost insignificant in comparison, its value in normal times before the great war being about $3,000,000 yearly; and the shad fishery, the prospects of which each spring call forth much comment in the public press, produces not one-tenth as much food. The most valuable fishery is that which furnishes us with oysters. The bureau of fisheries has more than once called attention to this vast food resource and the possibilities for increasing it and using it to better advantage.

YIELDS TO MARCH OF TIME

Old Hotel in Quincy, Mass., Associated With Famous Men, Is to Become Business Block.

The old Hancock house, situated in City square, Quincy, has ceased to be a hotel. The present owner of the property, Henry M. Faxon, is to have the upper part removed and the first floor converted into a large business block. The hotel has only provided sleeping quarters for a number of years.

In the days of the old stage coach the Hancock house was one of the leading hotels of southeastern Massachusetts and the first place to which travelers resorted for refreshments. Among the distinguished men who have been entertained there was Daniel Webster, going to and from his home on the old Plymouth coach. On account of Mr. Webster's liberality in dispensing good cheer it was frequently a long time before the coach was able to proceed on its trip. Mr. Webster was always generous in his tips to the stable boys and bell hops of those ancient days and history says that he often threw $5 goldpieces to the scrambling boys in the hotel yard.

The present structure was built in 1837, but several years ago the ground floor was remodeled into stores and only the upper part was used as the hotel proper. When Adams academy was in its prime the place was used as a boarding house for students who came to Quincy from other cities and states and were obliged to make their abode in the city of presidents.

That Dose Should Be Effective.
