Charles E. Hughes Joins Actors In Paying Tribute to Harding

On the same day that sixty members of the Harding-Coolidge Theatrical League journeyed from New York to Marion to greet Senator Harding, Charles E. Hughes dropped off the train at the now famous Ohio town to visit the Republican nominee for President. Al Johnson, president of the league, immediately elected Mr. Hughes a member, and together they played an important part in the day's program. Here we see Senator Harding, Eugene O'Brien, motion picture star, and Mr. Hughes.

Cynicism.
We are reminded that resentment and cynicism are so easily taken for the wisdom of disillusionment that there is double reason to guard against them. Many a hard soul fancies it is growing wise in the ways of the world when in truth it is only growing hard and bitter. Acquaintance with mankind does not mean merely learning humanity's downside and being on guard against it. Wider study will bring a far different and more hopeful knowledge.

Health Improvement in Brazil.
The famous saying "Brazil is a vast hospital" is in a fair way to being outlawed. Yellow fever is stamped out and the government has made an immense appropriation for supplying quinine to the entire community. To these achievements must be added the labors of the Oswaldo Cruz Institute in the realm of scientific prevention of communicable diseases of all kinds. —Brazil-Medico.

COX FOISTS FALSE SPECTER TO FORE IN CAMPAIGN TALK

No One Will Be Deceived by Democratic Attempt to Use Great President's Name.

THE PEOPLE KNEW ROOSEVELT

Death of Foremost American Has Not Dimmed His Deeds in the Minds of Patriots.

By William Hoster

Many one who was more or less intimately associated with Theodore Roosevelt in the last fifteen years of his life say a word in regard to the developing tendencies of the pending presidential campaign?

Governor James M. Cox, the Democratic candidate, with increasing frequency is using the name of Colonel Roosevelt in his speeches, as of one from whom the Governor has derived his inspiration for this momentous campaign, and whose support of Mr. Cox's so-called policies would be forthcoming were Roosevelt alive. At least, Governor Cox is at pains to make it appear that it is into his hands that the torch borne by Colonel Roosevelt was entrusted when the latter passed on.

Addressing the Ohio Democratic State Convention at Columbus on August 17th, among other things Governor Cox said:

"Need I remind you that it was in this State that Theodore Roosevelt, that great American, made his speech proclaiming his creed, not that the judges alone should be recalled, but that the judicial procedure itself should be subject to recall."

Acknowledged Error.

First and foremost, no man who knew Theodore Roosevelt well, and was proud to follow his leadership, needs to be told that he lived to realize the error of that specific doctrine which Governor Cox now drags from the political limbo of dead things.

But aside from this, the one outstanding note in Roosevelt's great career was his uncompromising, tried and true Americanism. He was an American above and beyond everything else. His Americanism arose above all party considerations. He was jealous of his country's honor, proud of its traditions, zealous in the maintenance of its integrity and independence. He labored incessantly to promote that national unity which he believed to be one of the safeguards of the Republic; and his faith in Washington's Farewell Address and in the Monroe Doctrine was such that he regarded strict adherence to the injunctions of both as the two great bulwarks of our national existence. If it were necessary to prove these assertions, columns could be quoted from his writings and speeches in support thereof. But one has only to mention the name of Theodore Roosevelt to bring before the mind a picture of a United States strong, self-reliant and independent.

Roosevelt's Position Clear.

One does not have to ponder long to reach a conclusion, therefore, where Roosevelt would stand if he were among us today. The man who in 1916 avowed that the supreme national need was the overthrow of Wilsonism and all that Wilsonism represents would have a mighty well-defined position in the fighting today if he were with us, and he would not be ranged on the side of Governor Cox.

The man who, though age was creeping upon him, demanded as his right that he be sent across to face with the two hundred thousand men that clamored to accompany him, the German menace; and who grimly laid down the plea that by his end on the field of battle the drooping morale of the entire forces might be revived, though the death of a former President of the United States would have had little in common with a candidate whose newspapers proclaimed sixteen months after the sinking of the Lusitania, that "The German U-boats have committed no crime against us."

Remember in what stirring words Roosevelt denounced the Lusitania sinking, and how, throughout all that dark period of American neutrality, his powerful voice rang through the land awakening the patriotism of our people to the culmination, in April, 1917, when even Mr. Wilson finally was compelled to face the inevitable.

There is no law against Governor Cox's use of Colonel Roosevelt's name. Nor is there any law on the statute books providing for the crimes which are committed in the name of progressiveness for which Colonel Roosevelt stood. There are Napoleons of finance, of wheat, of oil and of industry, but there was only one Napoleon. There are Jimmies and Edies and Harries, but there was only one Teddy.

In the campaign upon which we have entered, the name of Roosevelt will be invoked many times in many places in behalf of many things. But few in all the great army of those who followed Roosevelt will be deceived. They know above all other things that the safety and integrity of the United States lay closest to Theodore Roosevelt's heart, and with them his doctrine of stalwart Americanism will prevail against any preachment of progressivism which seeks to lure them from the path of patriotic duty.

SALVATION ARMY TO MAKE BOYS FARMERS

Neglected Youngsters to Be Given Thorough Training in Mechanics of Farming.

With thorough appreciation of the value to the state of trained agriculturists, versed in modern methods and with a knowledge of applied mechanics necessary to modern farming, the Salvation Army in its Home Service Program for Oregon, plans to make useful farm hands, if not farm experts, of many neglected and dependent youngsters. Throughout the state there are always lads whose ages range from seven and eight to fifteen years, who will have no future apart from poverty and comparative ignorance and probable criminality. Opportunities such as those to be offered by the Industrial and Agricultural school the Salvation Army plans to establish at North Yamhill, on the 100 acre farm on which now stand the buildings of the Bishop Scott school, will open before these lads, a useful life.

Brought up to manhood in clean surroundings, with daily instruction in ordinary schooling and practical instruction and practice in farming, the youngsters will not only be saved from bad citizenship but given a honorable profession or trade with which to earn their own way as men.

At the Yamhill school, to be patterned after the famous Lytton school conducted by the Salvation Army in California, both boys and girls will find all the essentials of preparation for life's battle. The girls will be taught sewing, household duties, cooking etc. The boys will be trained in several trades and in farming, horticultural and animal husbandry pursuits and modern farm mechanics.

And while their bodies and minds are being trained their responsibilities as citizens and members of society will not be neglected in fact, one of the strongest teachings of the Salvation Army is Americanism. The school is non-sectarian.

Through the efforts of the Salvation Army in Portland, several boys have been taken from up state Oregon towns and placed at the California farm school temporarily until the funds made available by the financial campaign, May 1 to May 10, provide for the opening of the Yamhill school County advisory boards in every county in Oregon are helping the Salvation Army in this great work with children.

SALVATION ARMY TO SERVE ALL OREGON

Business Men of Every County Join With Corps Officers to Extend Helping Hand.

A service born of service by men and women whose lives are dedicated to that service, a service not for gain, for it pays its workers poorly, is to be placed at the disposal of even the smallest community in Oregon through the expansion of the Salvation Army Home Service Program for 1920.

Since its splendid service among the American troops abroad brought to the attention of the home folks the kind of work the army has been doing quietly in the slums of the larger cities, demands from all quarters have flooded in upon the army until it has been forced to double and treble its efforts.

It has been compelled to expand beyond city lines and extend its service to the remotest districts of the state. And in these out of the way places the army is solving one of the greatest economic problems, handling at their source and preventing many of the ills that result from poverty and wrong teaching.

In every county of Oregon one and sometimes two advisory boards have been formed of business men and citizens of those counties. These men are constantly in touch with their communities and judge when and how best the Salvation Army can be utilized to serve the citizens of that community.

A word to headquarters brings the Salvation Army worker to take care of the man or woman, boy or girl whose misfortunes have overwhelmed them.

In the rescue and maternity home in Portland the unfortunate girl mothers of Oregon find a refuge and sanctuary.

In the boys and girls home to be established at Yamhill the life of the neglected child is shaped and the boy or girl prepared to go out into the world and win his or her own way.

In the industrial home in Portland many derelicts are made over into self supporting men and women who are no longer a charge upon their county but an asset to their community.

In the relief branches of the work done by the army many cases of poverty and sickness are handled annually. When the call for help comes there is no investigation of the worthiness of the subject. Help is given and investigation made afterwards.

Free employment bureaus which exact no membership fee, find work for hundreds of idle hands and while work is being found see to it that deserving men seeking honest employment do not starve.

STAND IN WAY OF BUSINESS

Historic London Churches May Have to Give Way to the Demands of Modern Progress.

Nineteen historic city churches in the heart of London, 13 of them the work of Sir Christopher Wren, have been marked for destruction by a commission appointed by the bishop of London to consider the whole question of the city churches. In seven cases it is proposed to preserve, for their architectural and historic value, the towers of the churches. In the other cases these old monuments, dating back to the seventeenth century and the great fire of London, would disappear.

This is the recommendation of the bishop's commission, but already strong protests have arisen and the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings has announced that it will take every possible step in making the strongest protest.

The value of the sites of these churches is placed at nearly $8,500,000, situated as they are in the great business center of London, between St. Paul's and the Tower and a little to the north of that line. In addition to this enormous return from the church property the commission expects to realize an income of $120,000 a year from the benefices after setting aside $81,000 a year for the salaries of certain of the clergy concerned. For the site of a single church, that of All Hallows, Lombard Street, Barclay's bank has offered $2,500,000, and the value of the site of St. Dunstan-in-the-East has been estimated at $1,250,000.
