Booze Fighters Arrested in Medford

It is going to be very costly for any man found drunk on the streets of Medford from now on, the police and sheriff and deputies will make an extra endeavor to apprehend all such offenders. Four men were found intoxicated on the streets late Saturday night by the night policemen and Deputy Sheriff McMahon, and were placed under arrest.

Of these Tom Carney of Medford and Jim White of Hit put up $25 cash bail each for their appearance in court and Henry Hukill of Medford pleaded guilty before Judge Taylor and was fined $25 and costs. Another young man arrested who is a juvenile was turned over by Judge Taylor to the juvenile court.

A man named Nelson who was intoxicated from over indulgence in an extract of some kind but who was not drunk on the street was let go as Judge Taylor deemed that his incarceration in the city prison from Saturday evening until Monday was sufficient punishment.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF PARAGRAPHS

Three Americans have recently been killed in Mexico. Complete details are lacking but investigation has been ordered by the state department.

King Alexander of Greece died after intense suffering caused by the bite of a monkey. The monkey had been inoculated with rabies as a plot to assassinate the king.

John T. McGraw manager of the New York Giants was indicted for having whiskey in his possession.

Crafty Wolf Works Havoc.

"Get that wolf" is the bold order under which H. P. Williams of Custer, one of the most experienced hunters in South Dakota is working for the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"That wolf" is a wicked veteran with the cunning of a criminal human and with an account of $25,000 charged against him for cattle and sheep destroyed in the six or seven years of his depredations.

This big cattle thief has defied all efforts of the local hunters. One of the tactics credited to him is that after making a kill of a fat calf or steer and eating his fill he makes a long trail from his kill and back tracks on a parallel line a few rods away. He then lies in wait at a point convenient to the sheltering timber.

When the hunters trail him with dogs he watches them from his cover safely to leeward to avoid his scent being carried. As the pack passes on the scent he quietly slips into the woodland and makes his getaway.

Extracts From Col. Sargent's Speech

The following are extracts from Col. H. H. Sargent's speech, delivered with telling effect at different points throughout the county during the campaign against county seat removal.

You will see by the circular letter which I have commented upon tonight and which doubtless you have all received that the captain and pilot of the enterprise is still on deck. I had felt certain that he had deserted the ship at the beginning of the voyage. A few nights ago it all seems to me in a dream-I saw the ship, Chamber of Commerce plowing through the rough waters trying to weather the storm. There were quite a number of Medford lawyers on board. The foiled and I could see the ship was about to strike the jagged rocks only a few yards ahead. Floating about the ship were many old papers most of them being court house petitions on which were written "fraud and perjury". It appeared that the captain and pilot had not after all deserted the ship; he had simply fallen overboard. A life line had just been thrown to him and he was standing on deck belaguered and dripping. Sticking to his coat tail was a torn piece of paper on which I could see was written "to proud to". The next word was a most indistinguishable, I could not for the life of me tell whether it was "talk or fight" but possibly it may have been both. Struggling in the water were three men. One was much exhausted but after making a desperate effort he was about to reach shore. There was a Mail Tribune in his pocket and plainly the editorial headlines "For God sake, save the old records in the wood shed. Another had sunk for the second time but he still held aloft in one hand which seemed to be a complimentary editorial taken from the Mail Tribune and he cried out, "If you can't save me, save this save this for my posterity," and a third, a pretty good swimmer, in order to attract the attention of the ships crew was waving frantically a paper on which was written, "Receipt for Automobile taxes."

Let me tell you something of my own personal experience. Carlville Illinois, is my home town. Carlville is the county seat of Macoupin county. Soon after the Civil war the people of Macoupin county decided to build a court house. When completed it was, and is, a beautiful building; stately and imposing, costing over a million dollars when labor and material were cheap. Just such a building as Medford would like to have. From boyhood to young manhood I lived under the shadow of the load the taxpayers had to carry. For almost forty years the people struggled to clear their county of the burden imposed upon them by the building of this court house. Finally when the last bonds were paid off they had an immense meeting of the citizens of Macoupin county at Carlville, the largest assembly known there. They killed the fatted ox, burnt the paid off bonds and rejoiced exceedingly.

ten, and I warn you that if the people vote to build a new court house for Jackson county they will in all likelihood suffer for it just as old Macoupin county—God bless her—suffered for it for forty years.

State and County Election Returns

The republican landslide which started November 2nd increases in dimension daily, late reports being to the effect that Warren G. Harding will receive overwhelming majorities from coast to coast and north to south. Returns received until Friday assured him of about 400 votes in the electoral college, with indications that one or two doubtful states would add to this majority. In 1294 out of 1699 precincts in Oregon Harding received 105,185 and Cox 58,688 votes.

In the senatorial race the defeat of Senator Chamberlain at the hands of Robert N. Stanfield is conclusive proof that this is a republican year. Incomplete returns giving Stanfield an insurmountable lead of 13,471. The following practically complete returns shows the winners in Jackson county together with their pluralities:

For President, Harding by 1867 votes.

For U. S. Senator, Robert N. Stanfield by 219 votes.

For State Legislature, E. V. Carter by 744 votes; Ben Sheldon by 657 votes.

For District Attorney, Rawles Moore, the only Jackson county democrat elected to office, by 270 votes.

For County Commissioner, Victor Bursell by 1584 votes.

For Sheriff, C. E. Terrill, by 1322 votes.

For County Clerk, Chauncey Florey, by 2337 votes.

For County Treasurer, A. C. Walker, by 2093 votes.

For County Assessor, J. B. Coleman, by 2351 votes.

For County School Superintendent, Miss Suzanne Homes.

For County Coroner, John Perl.

Two measures appearing on the ballot, the Roosevelt bird refuge and the constitutional amendment regulating legislative sessions and the payment of legislators carried in the county by small majorities, but indications are, will, together with the other measures, probably be defeated in the state.

Decline in Price of Crops Noted

The level of prices paid producers of the U. S. for the principal crops decreased about 10.6 per cent during August; in the past 10 years the price level decreased about 12 per cent during August. On September 1 the index figure of prices was 7.2 per cent lower than a year ago and 66.9 per cent higher than the average of the past 10 years on Sept. 1.

The prices of meat animals—hogs, cattle, sheep and chickens—to producers of the U. S. decreased 2.3 per cent from July to August in the past 10 years prices increased 1.4 per cent. On August 15 the index figure of prices for these meat animals was about 22.1 percent lower than one year, 14.8 percent lower than two years ago, and 34.1 percent higher than the average of the past 10 years on August 15.
