

JACKSONVILLE POST

Official Paper of the City of Jacksonville Oregon

A weekly newspaper published every Saturday at the county seat of Jackson County, Oregon.

Tom Fulton, Editor.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1920

The editor of a certain Medford weekly occasionally refers to the editorial utterances of his paper as "ravings." Ravings is right. In commenting on the Jacksonville banquet the brains of this great religious weekly was evidently overcome by an unusually virulent attack of "raving," as shown by the following sentences taken from the article in question: "Jacksonville has had a celebration like unto a jollification of turkey buzzards who rejoice over the finding of a discarded carcass." And again, "The court house means a great deal to Jacksonville. Some of her best citizens reside in the same yard with the old building. Some of her people wax rich by virtue of being able to accumulate the funds which the taxpayers graciously bring their way." This exhibition of petty malice is too contemptible to be noticed were it not for the opportunity it offers to warn Medford that continued toleration of such utterances is not conducive to good feeling between the two towns. The assertion that some of our citizens accumulate riches at the expense of the taxpayer is as false as it is ridiculous. And, speaking of the court house and its environments, it may not be amiss to remind our esteemed contemp. that "in the same yard with the old building" there is a commodious padded cell maintained for the accommodation of people addicted to the habit of "raving." In one paragraph Jacksonville is described as a rather unusual creature that will settle down in the shadow of its own ruins, fold its wings and swat flies—manifestly an impossible feat for an ordinary biped to perform. However, the fly-swatting problem should present no difficulty to the editor of the Medford paper. Classifying him by his bray, he should be able to settle down any old place, fold all four legs and swat flies with his ears.

It is never too early to begin cleaning up. Therefore, let us take advantage of the first spell of good weather and begin to make Jacksonville what nature intended her to be—literally, a shining example to the other towns of the valley.

What Hath He Done?

A man passes for what he is worth. Very idle is all curiosity concerning other people's estimate of us, and idle is all fear of remaining unknown. . . . "What hath he done?" is the divination which searches men and transpires every false reputation. A fop may sit in any chair in the world, nor be distinguished for his hour from Homer and Washington; but there can never be any doubt concerning the respective ability of human beings when we seek the truth. Prentiss never wrote an Iliad, nor drove back Xerxes, nor christened the world nor abolished slavery. . . . Never a sincere word was uttered lost. Never a magnanimity fell to the ground. Always the hearts of men greet and accept it unexpectedly. A man passes for what he is worth.—Emerson.

Reckoning Longitude.

Longitude in the United Kingdom and generally in the United States is reckoned from Greenwich, degrees being known as east longitude and west longitude from that point until they meet in the Pacific ocean at 180 degrees from Greenwich, the opposite zero point, Asia being in east longitude and the United States in west longitude. For the same reason the term Orient is applied to the East and Occident to the West. It may be said that Germany reckons longitude from Berlin, France from Paris and Spain from Madrid, while sometimes it is reckoned in this country from Washington, but, usually speaking, Greenwich is meant.

Unconscious Cerebration.

Appropos of the popular interest in the ouija board, a correspondent says: "An experiment in unconscious cerebration may be made in this way. Take a 5-cent piece and to it attach a fine silk thread with a bit of sealing wax. Then take an empty tumbler and suspend the nickel in the center of the glass, holding the thread tightly between the thumb and finger and resting the elbow on the 'funny bone.' Then, without conscious volition of the muscles, think of its movement east, west, north or south, or returning to the center. You will find that the coin will obey the thought, although you give consciously no direction for the movement."—From the Outlook.

Short-Sighted Mortals.

The golden moments in the stream of life rush past us, and we see nothing but sand; the angel came to visit us, and we only know them when they are gone.—George Eliot.

Reckless Reggie.

Nephew—That was a pretty good dinner we had; shall we have a drink now?
Uncle—Man, ye ken A'm teetotal.
Nephew—A cigar, then.
Uncle—A dinna smoke.
Nephew—Oh, do something reckless—remember my firm is paying all the expenses!
Uncle—Weel. A think A'll hae my boots cleaned here then!—The By-stander.

Another Royal Suggestion Griddle Cakes and Waffles

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

THERE is an art in making flapjack pancakes, griddle cakes or waffles, call them what you will. But it is an art very easily and quickly acquired if you follow the right recipes. The secret, of course, is Royal Baking Powder.

Griddle Cakes

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon shortening
Mix and sift dry ingredients; add beaten eggs, milk and melted shortening; mix well. Bake immediately on hot griddle.

Waffles

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
2 eggs
1 tablespoon melted shortening

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; add milk to yolks of eggs; mix thoroughly and add to dry ingredients; add melted shortening and mix in beaten whites of eggs. Bake in well-greased hot waffle iron until brown. Serve hot with maple syrup. It should take about 1 1/2 minutes to bake each waffle.
