Town Talk

Enos Conger, who was here in '77, dropped in again Saturday, after all these years of absence to find comparatively few he knew in those days. The town has not changed so much as the people. The greater population of those days has passed on. Mr. Conger is a veteran of the Civil War, and is now 78 years of age, and still enjoying a reasonable degree of health. He is a resident of Jacksonville, Ore. While here he and Mr. Pat Gallagher, another veteran of the Civil war enjoyed a pleasant reminiscence of war days. —Yreka Journal.

Billy Broad and family, who have been visiting his mother, Mrs. Anna Broad for several weeks, expect to leave soon for Weed, Calif. where Mr. Broad will resume his position with the Weed Lumber company, by which company he has been employed for about seven years.

Two good milk cows for sale. See W. R. Sparks.

We have received a number of appreciative comments on the sketch "A Vision of the Past," which appeared in this paper last week. The author of this article, which was written especially for the Post, has already received considerable note in the literary field and we are fortunate in receiving these contributions and properly grateful therefor. The story appearing this week is by the same author and we hope to publish further articles from time to time.

Deputy Sheriff McMahon is becoming a terror to violators of the motor laws. He was responsible for the appearance in Justice Taylor's court this week of Ray Stoner who was fined $10 for driving a car without a license and M. A. Yothers, who received a fine of $5 for carrying a 1920 license.

Mrs. H. Parsons of Ashland was a guest of Miss Lillie McCully Friday.

MOST FAMOUS PARIS SQUARE

Place de la Concorde Enriched by Works of Art of Country's Greatest Sculptors.

The dreams of many men of genius have gone into the making of the Place de la Concorde, in Paris. Gabriel, the architect, constructed the pavilions and balustrades. The equestrian statue of Louis XV, which stood in the square until the Revolution was the work of Bouchardon. Pigalle one of his contemporaries, surrounded the statue with figures emblematic of Strength, Wisdom, Justice and Peace. The square received its present form in 1854 from designs by Hittorf. The great statues of the cities were made by four famous French sculptors, each of whom did two figures.

At the entrance to the Champs Elysees, which forms the western boundary of the place, are the famous "Horses of Marly," by Guillaume Coustou, and at the eastern side at the entrance to the Garden of the Tuilleries, are the "Renommées" of Coyzevox—Mercury and Fame bestride horses.

In the center rises the obelisk of Ramses II, towering 76 feet, and weighing 230 tons. It is a single block of reddish granite, more than 3,000 years old, and it once stood before the temple of Amenhotep, near Thebes. It was brought to Paris in 1830.

DOGS AND CHURCH WINDOWS

Both in Ancient and Modern Times Animal's Representation Has Been Frowned Upon.

The stained-glass representation of the "Peillar and his Dog," to which attention has been directed by the discovery of a boundary stone of "Peillar's Acre," on the site of the new county hall, was removed, owing to the alleged incongruity of introducing the figure of a dog in a church window, says the Westminster Gazette.

Quite recently Chancellor Prescott of Carlisle refused a faculty a stained-glass window in a Westmoreland church because the design included a dog; and perhaps the only existing example of dogs used for ecclesiastical decorations are to be found in Lord Brownlow's private chapel at Ashbridge.

In this church one stained-glass window depicts Tobias and Sara in bed and a dog sleeping on the quilt, while in another window Job is shown being mocked by three men, one of whom is holding a dog by a chain.

British Warship's Great Guns.

At first sight it may seem strange that the Hood should carry only the same armament as the Queen Elizabeth, built some eight years before the Hood. As a matter of fact, the Queen Elizabeth's guns are forty-two calibers in length; but the guns of the Hood are forty-five caliber long and have greatly increased muzzle velocity. It is believed that the gun weighs a little under one hundred tons and fires a 1,950-pound shell with a muzzle velocity of 2,800 foot-seconds. Another improvement over the Queen Elizabeth is that the new guns have an elevation of 30 degrees for a maximum range of 38,000 yards. The loading gear has been so improved that the Hood is credited with being able to fire a salvo of eight guns every thirty-five seconds.—Scientific American.

Simple Trick of Artist.

Everybody has noticed that the eyes in some portraits follow one wherever he goes in the room. It is a bit uncanny to move about an apartment and have the eyes of a picture always upon one. Some superstitious persons are afraid to go into a picture gallery where portraits of their ancestors are to be found. The effect is simply an optical illusion and is secured by having the eyes in the portrait looking directly toward the front. Under such circumstances the pupil is necessarily in the middle, with an equal amount of "white" on each side. This relation does not vary at all with the position of the observer. No matter where you stand the pupil will be in the middle of the eye and the eye will seem to be looking at you.

Bird Outruns Horse.

Anyone who has traveled through Western Texas becomes familiar with the mesquite tree, or, as it sometimes grows, a shrub. In some places where it may grow to be thirty or forty feet high, it is commonly known as the chaparral, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. Here it is scrubby and masses into dense clumps, it being the home of that famous bird the "road-runner" or chaparral cock, and other interesting species. It is a form of big, ground cuckoo that only takes to flight when hard pressed; while on open ground it can run so fast that an ordinary horse can not keep up.

Disillusioned.

Waiting for his shoes in a while-you-wait repair shop, he was impressed by the apparent femininity and self-respect of the young woman attending the counter. He didn't like to see her handling worn shoes. He was wishing she were in another environment. Just then his shoes were passed along from the workman to her. She took them, looked at the tag, called a boy and pointing to the meditating customer, said: "Take these to that gink over there."

Patience. The best things usually require the most patience for their development. A lost may be put up in an hour, but a strong and stately building calls for long and careful work. We have need of patience not only with others, but also with ourselves in the building of character into what we would have it.

Pizarro's Famous Voyage. December 28 is the anniversary of the fifth start of Pizarro, in 1530, from Panama for Peru. The daring conqueror refused to give up his dream of finding gold in the Andean kingdom. The success of his enterprise from a money standpoint astonished the world and resulted in the conquest of the Incas.
