HENRY FENTON, Sergeant, Signal Service, U. S. A.

A young woman employed in one of the Lowell mills spends her evenings in the study of phonography, rhetoric and French, intending to become a reporter, and eventually an editorial writer. We wish this lady all possible success, and be-Wish this hady an possible success, and user lieve that, in any event, she will deserve it. But she must, as opportunity permits, add to the list of her studies, if she desires to become a newspaper woman. She may be assured that, in the calling to which she aspires, all facts are valuable so they be accurately remembered and well arranged in the mind. If she is to write editorials, she cannot possibly foresee what she will be called to write about, and she ought especially to have the leading points of modern history at her command. They will be vasily more useful than the rhet-They otic .- N. F. Tribune.

A worthy old gentleman has just died at Birmingham, England, of whom, while his name is famous to the ends of the earth, probably as little is known as of the obscurest of New York newsboys. He, more than any other man of his generation, had practical experience of the fact that "The pen is mightier than the sword at least mightier as the instrument by which to achieve a great fortune. His name was Joseph Gillott, and he was a She-eld grinder.

"MR. BROWN, you said the defendant was honest and intelligent. What makes you think so? Are you acquainted with him

"No, sir, I have never seen him."

"Why, then, do you come to such a conclusion?"

"Because he takes ten newspapers, and pays for them in advance."

Verdict for defendant.

A minister at a colored wedding who wished to be humorous, said: "On such occasions it is customary to kiss the bride, but in this case we will omit it." To which ungallant remark the bridegroom pertinently replied: "On such occasions it customary to pay the minister $10, but in this case we will omit it."

As Alabama editor winds up an editotial on the corn crop with the remark, We have on exhibition in our sanctum a pair of magnificent ears. They are nearly a foot long and are compactly filled. We believe they would be good for seed."

MIRTH AT MEAL TIME .- Everybody ould plan to have a pleasant conversation at the table, just as they have good food. A little story telling, it may be of humorous things, anecdotes, etc., will often stimulate the joyous elements of the mind, and cause it to act vigorously and healthfully. Try and avoid going to the table all tired out. Let all troublesome topics be tired out. Let all troublesome topics be avoided. Let aches, pains and funerals not be introduced. Don't scold domestics. In fact, don't scold at all. Don't discipline children. Think and say something pleas-ant. Cultivate minh and laugh when anyand, contrace furth and consider never eat thing with is said. If possible, never eat alone. Invite a friend of whom you are fond, and try and have a good time. Friendship and friendly intercourse at the table promotes the flow of animal spirits and aids digestion. Think of a sulky churl munching his meal in a dogged temper. He will become a dyspeptic. Never bring a surly growl or complaint to the table. Is the pudding too salt? Was the bread burnt 3 Do not mention it-especially at the table. Let that pass; though you need not eat that which may not be palatable or healthful, politely decline it. He who brings the most happiness to the table is the most welcome guest, either at home or abroad, abroad, They have discovered a giant out in Tennessee in the person of a man named James Horner. He is a citizen of Perry county, and is one of a family of eight children, none of whom had exhibited any unusual traits. At the age of 18 years he was a well-grown man, six feet high, and weighed 180 pounds. At 21 he was six inches taller, and weighed 210 pounds. He ceased to notice any growth after that until he was 24 years old, and then only by the smallness of his clothes, and he then mea-ured in his stockings 6 feet 9 inches. Since then—he is now 32 years of age—he has attained the height of 7 feet 9 inches, and is still growing at the rate of two inches annually. A Chicago girl writes to the school au-
