

Moore's Rural Life, an illustrated journal for suburban village and country homes, is a handsome 24-page publication, just issued. It is published at 34 Park Row, New York, and is only $1.50 per year. We consider it a valuable addition to the illustrated press.

Beer fills many a bottle, and the bottle many a beer.

The latest out; the boy who is "kept after school."

The shears are quicker than the pen.

There is nothing in art that can counterfeit the expression on the face of a man who has a raspberry seed under the plate of his false teeth.

After friendship and love comes benevolence, and that compassion which unites the soul to the unfortunate. It is well known that this is particularly the share of women. Everything disposes them to tenderness and pity.

"To fill the soul with a noble sentiment is better than to teach a truth of science. To fashion a noble soul is better than to found a kingdom.

We protest against the useless expenditure of the proposed vaccination of our police force at the city's expense. They never catch anything.

An exceedingly valuable and much-needed curative for jaded wives and matrimony-seeking daughters may be found, if husbands and papas will be so kind as to send them to J. F. D. Wrinkle & Co.'s establishment for dry goods.

Wood-choppers should take notice that Kirk Sheldon, in East Portland, is the only firm in the Northwest which make a specialty of wood-chopper's goods. He is sole agent for Perkins' Steel Wedges, Sledges and Axes, and Atkins' Diamond Saw. Price list sent on application.

Fine premiums awarded to Abell for the best cabinets, cards, and retouched photographs at the late State Fair.

The truth of the old adage that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country," is well illustrated by the neglect on our coast of the inestimable qualities possessed by the little Eulachon or Candle-fish of British Columbia. We import from thousands of miles away the probably inferior oil of Newfoundland Cod, when we have at our doors a remedy which Nature has so kindly supplied for those infirmities her climate is apt to produce. We therefore invite attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Langley & Co., of Victoria, respecting this neglected but valuable natural remedy, supported as its character has been by eminent medical men and by the testimony of very numerous convalescents.

The New England Hotel, at Seattle, of which L. C. Harmon, Esq., is proprietor, has just been greatly enlarged, and now offers superior accommodations to the traveling public.

The Chemeketa, at Salem, is one of the most comfortable hotels on the coast. S. F. Mathews, Esq., the proprietor, does everything in his power to make it pleasant for his patrons.

If you want to soothe domestic perplexities, allay disagreeable feelings, re-establish harmony and maintain peace and love in your home of homes, send your wife and babies to Jo. Buchtel the prince of Portland's photographers, to get their pictures taken.
