

ON STAGE

Gertrude Stein and a Companion, a two-woman play featuring British actresses Miriam Margolyes and Natasha Morgan, will be presented at Portland State University's Lincoln Hall Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. today and Friday, Oct. 3. The play, by the late Win Wells, opened in the 1984 Edinburgh Festival and later moved to the London stage, featuring this same casting.

Gertrude Stein and a Companion is a portrait of the long relationship of American writer Gertrude Stein and Alice B. Toklas. Stein is perhaps better known for her relationship to the "lost generation" (her term) of writers and artists in Paris during the 1920s than for her own writings.

The work of Miriam Margolyes, as Gertrude Stein and Natasha Morgan, as Alice B. Toklas, has won consistent praise from critics in England. They are currently touring the production in the United States. Margolyes has appeared in numerous plays, films, television and radio programs. Morgan, besides acting on stage and television, runs a small theater company and is a playwright.

Pantomime, presented by the IFCC Theatre, is the Oregon premiere of this off-color comedy as part of its continuing effort to focus on the various human relationships in different cultures.

Set in the West-Indies on the Island of Tobago, Pantomime portrays the efforts of hotel owner Harry Trewe, (Joe Cronin) to put together a panto with the assistance and cooperation of his servant Jackson Phillip (A. Lee Wilson).

The play tackles such topics as racism, British colonialism and the whole question of the "white man's burden."

Pantomime plays Thursdays through Sundays through October 25th at 8 p.m. Call 243-7930 for reservations.
