just friends

Just Friends ads have been edited in the past to delete references to race. Recently, we were asked by a woman of color to reconsider our policy on stating race in Just Friends ads. At that time we requested input from the community and the response was overwhelmingly in support of not editing out references to race. Our policy has been changed and we hope that Just Friends advertisers will be inclusive of and sensitive to all people when choosing the wording for their ads, and we will continue our policy to edit ads that are deemed offensive or demeaning:
