We're back! Cascade AIDS Project and the Center for AIDS Prevention Studies have been conducting a joint survey of gay and bisexual men in Portland. For the past two years, more than 1600 gay and bisexual men have participated in this research project. The data from the first two surveys are now being analyzed by scientists from the Center for AIDS Prevention Studies. Findings from the project are already being used to help Cascade AIDS Project, and other Portland-area AIDS agencies, provide more efficient services to the gay/bisexual male community.

During the months of January, February and March, we will be contacting you again to complete this year's survey. We need to reach as many of the original men in the survey as possible, so that we can find out how attitudes and behaviors of gay/bisexual men in the Portland area are changing over time. This is the third of five annual surveys.

Confidentiality is absolutely guaranteed. Please continue to be part of a project that helps the Cascade AIDS Project do a better job for Portland! If you have questions, or need more information, contact Dan Bueling at Cascade AIDS Project, 223-5907 ext. 128, or Ron Stall, collect, at the Center for AIDS Prevention Studies, (415) 597-9155.

We look forward to talking with you again!
