Lutheran youth vote for inclusion

At the official convention of the Lutheran Youth Organization, held last July in Atlanta, elected delegates from across the nation passed two measures. One vowed "To continue to include youth in the LYO regardless of sexual orientation; this means that the LYO will strive to make all of its expressions safe spaces where gay, lesbian and bisexual persons can be supported and affirmed, and will continue to dialogue about the issues surrounding sexual orientation."

The other—a resolution on gay, lesbian and bisexual youth—which passed by 94 percent of the vote, directed "that the board of the Lutheran Youth Organization strongly encourage every synod to establish an open, nonjudgmental communication link between themselves and the gay, lesbian and bisexual community of the [Evangelical Lutheran Church of America]."
