We put the "real" back into real estate.

In this age of real estate conglomerates and high technology one thing often gets overlooked - you and your individual needs.

From the day we opened in 1979, the agents at Bridgetown Realty have never lost sight of the very real personal, emotional and financial considerations that go into buying or selling a home. It's our business to guide you through the transaction process and keep you informed in real terms you can understand.

At Bridgetown Realty you are not just a number...you're treated as a real person. We're proud to say we're putting the "real" back into the business of real estate.
