from the most indy filmmaker of all

Change The Frame (92 min)

Angela (Stephani Shope) is a college graduate who has put her life on hold waiting for her girlfriend, Rachel (Cristina Rey), to finish grad school. Meanwhile, Rachel is too absorbed in school to realize Angela has become frustrated with her life and their relationship. Before long, a hot dyke singer becomes the catalyst in their relationship's turmoil, forming a classic love triangle with a lesbian twist.

"Finally a film that takes relationships seriously"

San Francisco Gay and Lesbian Film Festival

"This refreshingly honest film presents a rare glimpse of the familiar details of lesbian life"

New York Gay and Lesbian Film Festival

Inn Trouble (93 min) charts the adventures of an eclectic group of friends who inherit a bed and breakfast from their recently deceased surrogate grandmother, Maggie. Part of the emerging genre of lesbian romantic comedy, Inn Trouble is a hilarious and realistic portrayal of love and coming of age.

"Director Cristina Rey delivers a cozy romantic comedy that entertains with its quirky narrative of bed-hopping, personal mishaps and grassroots espionage"

Fierte '97 - Ottawa

"Entertaining, fun and beautiful to look at" San Fco. '97
