

Luxury Defined:

Weaving is such an ancient process that no one knows exactly where it originated, though some venture a guess that the spider's web or the bird's nest provided the first inspiration. Even as the evolving technology of the loom continues to bring us new fabrics, there are some simple weaving concepts that will always endure, such as sateen. This cotton fabric is created on the loom by running the top thread (the "weft") over three bottom threads (the "warp") instead of just one. Because this weaving process exposes more yarn to the touch, sateen has a buttery soft texture and a gentle sheen. When made from top grade cotton in high thread counts, sateen sheets, shams and pillowcases epitomize luxury bedding.
