HELP WANTED

Are you enthusiastic? Smart? Vital?
Full of good ideas? Do you enjoy working with people on interesting projects?

Vernier Software & Technology is looking for an entry-level software engineer to work with a great team designing and developing our next generation of educational software. Do you love coding? Have you worked on projects of your own? This is a wonderful opportunity for someone who knows software but perhaps hasn't had any real-world experience working on large projects. We're a fantastic company that develops software and hardware for the educational community. Our products make a difference -- kids learn science easily, quickly, and have fun with our hands-on sensors and powerful software. Check out our web site at www.Vernier.com and if you like what you see and think you're right for this job, email a cover letter and resume to gupshaw@vernier.com.
Equal opportunity/AA employer.
