

OREGON HUMANE SOCIETY

We, the humane, are a society of people.

We're a collective dedicated to showing the better aspects of the human character.

A group who believes the solution to some of the world's biggest problems begins with the world's smaller inhabitants. These animals, our animals, are both creatures that desperately need a human's love and attention, and at the same time the greatest teachers of what human love could be. The golden rule as taught by the golden retriever.

We are a society twenty thousand strong and a shelter with another thousand volunteers.

Yet we're really nothing more than a single person with a spot in their heart for the little ones. Our great society is just a small x in a tiny box next to the words,

"Yes, I'd like to become a member."
