Meet Charlie – Happy Dog, Once Again.

“Early in the year, Charlie, our 18-month-old Chesapeake Bay Retriever became clumsy and uncoordinated. We attributed this to a combination of slippery hardwood floors and Charlie’s spoiled nature. We had numerous visits with our vet. After examinations and x-rays our vet referred us to NWVS. After only a few tests, a NWVS doctor diagnosed his problem: Charlie’s spinal column was compressing his spinal cord, causing him to lose control of his body. Within a couple of weeks, he had surgery to repair the problem. He is still healing, but already we are happy with the results and everyone that knows him has said how much happier he is now.

— Charlie’s Owners: Rebecca & Craig Anderson, Sandy, Oregon
