Paging All Fans

All-female Led Zeppelin revue returns with Portland-based pipes

Leave it to the ladies to be ballsy enough to take on one of the bastions of rock 'n' roll—the get-the-Led-out ladies of Zepparella, an all-female Led Zeppelin revue. After five years touring the United States, two live albums and stage stints with the likes of KISS, Zepparella drummer Clementine and guitarist Gretchen Menn are back with two new band members.

One of these new muses of rawk happens to be a Portland girl. Singer Miaya Shambry boasts face-melting chops—and a mastery of the Plant catalog sure to impress even the fiercest LZ fan. And bassist Angeline Saris, hailing from the San Francisco Bay area, has torn her way up and down fretboards of jazz to speed metal, Cuban to hip-hop, flamenco to rockabilly and, yes, classic R&B and rock. (Naturally, she cites John Paul Jones as a main influence.)

As with any tribute act, the challenge lies in honoring the legacy of a band deemed sacred by its brethren and breathing new life into sonic scriptures the faithful want performed just so. That Zepparella is more than a shrewd, line-toeing gender gimmick is just the beginning—these rock goddesses craft their own brew of improvised magic within Zepparella's iconic discography.

The songs may remain the same, but the looks and sounds ramble on (c'mon, we had to)—and to an audience of converts known for notching upwards of 100 Zepparella shows to their names. If that ain't proof of a whole lotta love...

Fri., April 8, 9 p.m.; Dante's, 350 W. Burnside; $12 in advance, $15 at door, TicketsWest.com.
