Rose City Rollers host Sibling Rivalry II against Seattle

A sense of friendly competition between Portland and Seattle is present in more than just the mind of Kyle MacLachlan's mayor of Portlandia. Fortunately, there's nothing like a little sibling rivalry to grease the wheels of competition and pride—the roller skate wheels, that is.

Portland's Rose City Rollers face off against Seattle's Rat City Roller girls for a four-by-four bout between the rival cities' non-traveling teams April 23 at the Memorial Coliseum. Thousands of dedicated fans from both sides will fill the venue to witness the aggressive athleticism.

"Rose City Rollers fans are awesome," says Guns 'N' Rollers member Christine McClane (aka Roller Eclipse). "Some people are fans of a particular team, but there are others who never miss a bout, no matter who is playing."

The stakes are high, with each city looking to topple the tied results from February's match-up in Seattle. Still, as far as rivalries go, the one between Portland and our northern neighbor is friendly, McClane says. The rivalry with the Bay Area Derby Girls is another story.

The teams will be matched according to their 2010 intra-league rankings, resulting in four brutal bouts between the rollers of the Rose and Rat cities: Breakneck Betties vs. Derby Liberation Front, Guns 'N' Rollers vs. Throttle Rockets, Heartless Heathers vs. Grave Danger and High Rollers vs. Socket Wenches.

Sat., April 23, 5 p.m. doors, 5:45 p.m. bout; Memorial Coliseum, 300 N. Winning Way; $14 general admission, $20 "rock star" guaranteed seating; dance party to follow, 9 p.m., Bossanova Ballroom, 700 E. Burnside, rosecityrollers.com.
