

Staff Pick: "Lumberjack" BY ATOM ION

This is the reason why I love the Northwest—the lumberjacks. They are the strong and hearty stock, and this one is the best of the breed—strong arms and legs, and the best feature, the right amount of body hair. This is going to be hung in my wet bar. (And I will be hunting in the woods.)

"Horsetail Falls in Winter"

BY E. EDWIN ENNOR

Upon first glance, this photograph appears a digital creation, a quasi "tear" through an otherwise organic image. There's a symbiotic contrast here in textures, seasons, shadows and light, an austere sense of violence and yet utter calm that demands a second—and third—look.
