Hair All About It

Broadway Theatre Rose kicks off 20th summer season with big, big fun

Break out the Aqua Net and say a prayer for the ozone layer, Hairspray is back. The 1988 John Waters film-turned-Broadway smash returns to the Portland metro area in a new production by, fittingly enough, Tigard's Broadway Rose Theatre Company.

With its sock-hops, teen crushes and doo-wop, the coming-of-age circa 1962 tale of high hopes and higher hair charmed audiences, introducing the ever-eccentric Waters to a family-friendly mainstream. That's not to say the auteur's signature quirk is lacking, what with big-boned mama Edna scripted to be performed in drag (Divine in Waters' film, Tony Award-winner Harvey Fierstein in the stage adaptation and, later, John Travolta in the 2007 film version of the musical itself).

For the Broadway Rose production—which launches the company's 20th summer season—Dan Murphy takes the matriarchal reins to Blythe Woodland's Tracy Turnblad, the "pleasantly plump" teen with aspirations to dance on an urban television show. Turnblad is more than a fictional heroine of fat activism—she's a fierce mover and shaker who stands up against bullying, racism and, of course, champions big girls with big hair.

With crowd-pleasing numbers by Marc Shaiman and Scott Wittman ("I Can Hear the Bells," "Good Morning, Baltimore," "Cooties"), Hairspray remains an enduring Technicolor delight for nostalgia fans of all ages. You can't stop the beat, or the bouffant—to quote a YouTube salon celeb, "Be-Weave it."

July 1-24, 7:30 p.m., Thurs.-Sat., 2 p.m., Sun. and Sat., July 16 and 23; Deb Fennell Auditorium, 9000 SW Durham Road, Tigard; $28-$35, $20 ages 6-25; 503-620-5262 or broadwayrose.org.
