(MARRIAGE)

OBAMA!

President Obama became the first President to come out in support of same-sex marriage, when he spoke in support of the freedom to marry on ABC's Good Morning America in May.

"Today's announcement is historic and it is a pivotal moment for the freedom to marry in Oregon and the nation. We'll want to rejoice and take stock of how far we've traveled, but we still have much work to do." Jeanne Frazzini, Executive Director at Basic Rights Oregon, wrote shortly after the historic news hit Portland.

Within 24 hours over 1,700 individuals signed BRO's official THANK YOU note for the President.

"Growing up in a small Oregon coastal town, in Newport, Ore., I never thought in my lifetime I would ever hear a president say that he supported equal marriage," Portland Mayor Sam Adams said to Talking-PointsMemo.com.
