

Q+A

Anthony Hudson

Q: How do you identify?

A: I identify as an interdisciplinary artist and human mortal, except when my body is occupied by the immortal demon clown Carla Rossi.

Q: What do you do for a living?

A: I'm my own employer, manager, and agent and have shown my work in galleries, film festivals, movie theaters, and gay bars. The gays just tip better. I'm also the spokesclown and hostess for the Genderfucking Takeover parties I throw with Ash Kenazi and Samuel Thomas.

Q: How long have you been in Portland? What do you love/hate about it?

A: I've been in Portland for five years now. I love all my hard-working and passionate friends who put in so much time building a crazy creative culture here. But I really hate my inability to find good Chinese food. Oh, and the Timbers Army. Somebody really needs to re-design those Harry Potter outfits.

Q: What's your most embarrassing moment or a passion you have that no one would guess?

I've watched The Princess Diaries about 5,000 times. (It was research.)

Q: Who do you look up to or revere in the gay community or historically?

A: I really admire John Waters and his Dreamland players, The Cockettes.
