ZELLA BAILEY

J. C. Anyone could tell by looking at you that your folks came from Ireland.

Darby—My parents did not come from Ireland.

J. C.—Come on, don't fool me, your face shows your parents came from Ireland.

Darby: "They did not; they're still there."

Father: "So you borrowed the car last night to take the boys for a spin, eh?"

Tom: "Er—well—"

Father: "It's all right — only one of them left his powder puff under the seat."

Dorrance—"I understand you accused me of being dishonest."

Laurence—"I never said anything of the sort. What I did say was that if you hadn't helped me look for that dollar I lost the other day, I might have found it."

Irwanda B.—"Aren't y o u afraid to let your little sister run that sharp hat-pin into her mouth?"

Norma B.—"Oh, she won't hurt it, besides, it's an old rusty one."

"Nothing could be sadder than a man without a country," said Bing in History Class.

"Except a country without a man," sighed Jean.

"I don't want any callers this afternoon," said the business man to his office boy. "If they say their business is important, tell them that's what they all say."

That afternoon a lady called and inhaled on seeing him. "I am his wife," she explained.

"That's what they all say," said the office boy.

The proprietor of the bath house at the beach had a gentle way of breaking bad news. He sent the following letter to the wife of one of his patrons.

"Mrs. Curtis: Your husband's bathing suit was washed out to sea this morning, and it will probably be impossible to recover it.

P. S. "Your husband was inside of it."

Mr. Bann—(At six o'clock in the morning)—"What do you mean — bringing my daughter home at this hour, young man?"

Lloyd D.—"Well, Sir, you see, I go to work at seven."

The Doctor answered t h e phone. Turning to his wife, he said, "Quick, get me my satchel. The man says he cannot live without me."

"Just a minute," said his wife, who had picked up the receiver. "That call was for Ethel."

A guide showing an old lady over the zoo took her to a cage occupied by a kangaroo, "Here, Madam," he said, "we have a native of Australia."

The visitor stared at it in horror. "Good gracious," she said, "and to think my sister married one of them."

Speaker—"What is a home without a mother."

Everett Yoe.—"An incubator."

Walt — You're a dear sweet girl. God bless you and keep you.—I wish I could afford to.

Editing The Rogue

Getting out a Rogue News is no picnic. If we print jokes, folks say we are silly; if we don't they say we are too serious. If we publish original stuff they say we lack variety. If we clip from other papers they say we are too lazy to write. If we stay in the office we ought to be out hunting up news. If we hunt up news we are not attending to business in the Rogue office. If we wear old clothes we're lousy. If we wear new ones they are not paid for. Like as not some one will say we swiped this article from another paper. We did.

C. F. G. Stunt Show Is A Great Success

The Camp Fire Girls of Ashland High gave their annual stunt show Friday, April 19, and it was a great success in every way.

Lucile Carson, business manager, has not cleared up all of the money affairs but the proceeds will be between $42 and $50. This will go to pay for the summer camp which will be held at Lake of the Woods in August.

Several girls made outstanding successes in carrying out their parts. Leona Spayde as "Red Wolf" made a convincing Indian, and Pearl Wright advanced her reputation as a good elocution artist considerably.

Arvilla Harris in her roles of "Zekiel Stepfelchit Brown" and the butterfly in the Fairy play did outstanding work.

Several girls from Junior High helped as fairies in a dance which they had made up themselves.

The following program was presented:

- Drill, Creeds and Songs.
- Talk—Mr. Briscoe.
- Indian Play—"Chief, Head-In-The-Clouds."
- Piano Solo—Louise Anderson.
- Folk Dance.
- Country Fair.
- Violin Solo—Ellen Galey.
- Fairy Play—"A Garden Cinderella."

"Thank-You-Marms"

An older generation coined that expression to describe the bumps in the road which modern road engineers have eliminated.

"Thank-you marms" on Life's Highway can't be so easily removed. However, thrift and a healthy bank balance form an effective shock absorber when you are obliged to ride over financial bumps.
