

ROGUE NEWS

PUBLISHED BY THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

OF THE ASHLAND, OREGON, HIGH SCHOOL

VOL. 12.

ASHLAND, OREGON, MARCH 10, 1933.

No. 7.

JUNIOR CLASSMEN SET PROM DATE FOR MARCH 31

ANNUAL JUNIOR-SENIOR FETE
AT LITHIA SPRINGS HOTEL
TO BE GALA EVENT

"The sky is the limit!" Limit what? Certainly not of the prom for this year! No sir, thirty dollars and NOT ONE CENT MORE. Of course that does not mean anything to the Juniors because they have no thirty dollars to spend. The committee who have to worry over the spending of the twenty-five dollars which they do have, are:—Moderator: Edna Fehige, Mollie Helms, Virginia High, Entertainers: Helen Gould Food; Wanda Purves, Alberta Thomas.

But even with that—shall we say, meager amount—the Juniors are preparing to give the seniors a genuine "gala affair."

Eight and one-half credits are the requirements to the prom. That announcement will save many a young student from worrying about what she or he will wear to the affair.

This year's prom will be held in the ball-room of the Lithia Springs hotel. Of course it is

(Continued on Page 4)

G. L. To Present Health Pageant

Secret Committee Now Acting
To Watch For Good
Postures

The Girls' League, together with the G. A. A., is now preparing for a Health Pageant to be given some time before the close of school.

This play is to be based mainly on "Good Posture," and will have a court with a king and queen of Postureland and members of the court.

There will be folk dances and skits given by all the schools. However, the queen is to be chosen from the Ashland High School.

This queen will be chosen by a secret committee, already appointed; they are to watch every girl in school and pick the one that has the best posture and takes the best care of herself. She will be chosen about two weeks before the pageant is to be given.

Graduates Plan Closing Affairs

Class of 1933 Has Selected
Their Announcements
In Modern Mode

With commencement looming on the not too far distant horizon, the senior class has been kept quite busy these last few weeks. All credits have been checked and rechecked, proving to some that they had more than they thought, while to others came great disappointments in finding they lacked a few of having enough.

At a recent class meeting the seniors discussed and voted on the announcements. These are to be in the modern mode, with black and white predominating, and the class crest on the front.

Miss Lockhart explained to the girls some of the conventions observed in using personal cards. At a later meeting, Mr. Forsythe made the announcement that the class would vote to see whether caps and gowns will be used for commencement and baccalaureate this year or not.

HI-Y MEMBERSHIP HOLD OPEN FORUM

Mr. Forsythe, principal of the High School, was the speaker of the evening at the last meeting of the Hi-Y Club. At the previous meeting the club had as its guest Mr. Briseoe. He spoke about the Hi-Y's responsibility to the school, and later led a round-table discussion.

Carl Brower has been appointed as head of a baseball committee, in charge of starting an indoor tournament like the one last year. The committee also has charge of publicity and selecting the team from the Hi-Y to represent them in the competition.

COACH'S HOOPSTERS TO RECEIVE AWARDS

It is probable that seven basketball players will receive letters this year. Those who were successful, according to Coach Faber, in fighting against great odds to receive their letters are: Headrick Baughman, Hjalmer Kannasto, Olan Sneed, Robert Hardy, Billie Hoxie, Captains Willie Durham, Parker Hess.

As five of this year's squad will return next year, the prospects of a good team look very bright. Also there are a number of new men that look promising.

Typists Continue Steady Practice

Miss Tjosdal's Teams Prepare For County Contest
on April 7

Last year, Ashland won the Southern Oregon contest in typing and this year the team is aiming at a repetition of the victory.

The manager for this year's contest is Miss Tjosdal, who announced that the County typing contest will be held in Ashland, April 7.

Any high school in Southern Oregon may participate in this annual contest for supremacy in the commercial field. Each school entering has a team on which are two amateur and two novice typists. The team that wins the county contest gets to keep the cup for a year. Three wins gives permanent possession of the county cup.

Most of the schools have written to say they plan to compete, although, it is understood, Klamath Falls will enter only their shorthand team.

ROGUE'S NEWSPAPER TRICKS SAD STAFF

Ye editor sighed, as only he can sigh—wistfully, as he tenderly filed the Christmas edition. Why did he sigh? Well, the Business Manager had just lunged out of the door with the shining cool but fiery headed Assistant-Business Manager, having admitted to a hollow oche in the exchequer of the house organ. Besides, the Principal had spoken—no ads, no pay, no paper. The Adviser had said something vague about "maybe" and "later." That was in the gray days before exams.

Came February. The Editor approached the Superintendent of Schools. He would see, so he did. Confidence returned. The Depression was over. The Adviser beamed; the Editor began talking to himself. The little Rogue laughed to see such sport. The Business Manager and the Assistant-Business Manager took ideas and dashed and danced, respectively. Down Town with Confidence. When they returned they had Ads, plenty of them. The Principal said he knew they could.

Came March, and about the idea, the Paper. But do not beware, Roughish Reader, for here endeth the first lesson in "If at first you don't succeed—"

'ONCE IN A PALACE' COMIC PHANTASY IS CLASS PLAY

SENIORS JOYFUL AT CHOICE OF COSTUME DRAMA AND CAST

A novelty production features the choice of "Once in a Palace," a fantasy, as the Senior class play. Much enthusiasm has been shown by the seniors for the production. "Once in a Palace" is similar to "One Hour With You," Maurice Chevalier's latest film, in many ways. The dialogue is modern, while the setting and costumes are taken from the middle-ages.

The plot is based upon the old "Arabian Nights" story of an emperor who has a fatal weakness for clothes. As developed in "Once in a Palace," this mania for a wardrobe leads King Hazem, a jolly monarch, into many hilarious predicaments and speeches.

The leading interest in the story arises through King Hazem's offer of the hand of his fair, but spoiled daughter, Pri-

(Continued on Page 4)

Forensic Coach Commends Squad

Miss Tomlinson Gives Gold A's
To Debaters of Tax Question

The debating team of Ashland High received their official credit for the 1932 season during the Washington Day program. Miss Tomlinson, debate coach, presented the gold "A" to the four members of the team, Rachel Forsythe, Doris Hunter, Elmo Andrews, and George Smith.

The district debates were held the second week in February between Medford, Grants Pass, and Ashland. The single judge was Prof. W. E. Dahlberg, of the Speech Department, University of Oregon.

The teams this year appeared to be quite evenly matched, but Medford carried off the district cup, which entitles them to represent Southern Oregon in the state competition.

The teams held practice debates with Klamath Falls about a week before the district debates. Both of these were won by Ashland.