Popular Dean of Girls Ends Teaching Career

If you should happen to see Mrs. Mary Christlieb rushing down the halls between classes, you can be sure she has something on her mind. This 5'2", vivacious teacher is kept very busy with her shorthand, office practice, and steno classes, which she says, are better than ever this year.

Aside from her classes, she has one of the most important positions in the school, that of Dean of Girls. She has been trying to make the Dean's office play a more important part years ago. It was going to be her first try at teaching and when she came to the school to get some books, she encountered Mr. Parks. Asking him for the books, he promptly "bawled her out" because, as he stated, "We aren't allowed to issue books to students before school starts." She hastened to explain that she was one of the new teachers!

Oil painting and cooking are Mrs. Christlieb's favorite hobbies. Asked what her likes and dislikes were, she said, "I don't like hot weather, but I sure like to sleep!"

After attending grade schools in Iowa, she attended Washington, Bellview, and Junior High here in Ashland. Upon her graduation from high school in Corvallis, Oregon, she entered Oregon State College at Corvallis, and got a B.S. in education there.

At the end of the first semester, Mrs. Christlieb plans to draw an end to her teaching career. Miss Loraine Rosa, a graduate of Washington State College, Pullman, Washington, will be taking over steno and office practice classes.

in the lives of the students.

Asked what her pet peeve was, she emphatically replied, "Those hot rodders that take off like mad, leaving patches on the road!"

She believes her most embarrassing moment was when Principal Roland Parks mistook her for one of the students a few days before school started, four and one-half

THESPIANS TO INITIATE

The Thespian troupe of Ashland High has been making plans for a program to give a Founder's Day, for the Parent-Teachers Association. It will be a colorful play, with the spirits of the actual founders of the P. T. A. paying a visit to several P. T. A. members of today.

Also, the Thespians have received an invitation to hold a double initiation with the Thespian troupe of Dunsmuir, California. Plans are being made to see if it will be possible for Ashland's troupe to make the trip some time early in March.

ceive their crowns during the lifetime of the Grants Pass-Ashland basketball game, Friday, January 23.

Glen Ingle, president of Letterman's Club, is in charge of the coronation. Bob Delsman was chosen as escort for the Queen. Gregg Linsinger and Ted Tenney will be escorts for the princesses.

The coronation was originally scheduled for the Medford-Ashland game, but due to difficulties, it was postponed for one week.

Jrs. Plan Smoker

The juniors are planning a smoker for January 27, to raise money for class benefits. The smoker will be held in the junior high gym at 8 p.m.

Chairman and person responsible for this smoker is George Gray. George plans to get students of Ashland High to sign up as participants in events according to weight and size. The names of the students who will participate are not as yet available because not enough have signed up.

Just before Christmas, a holiday luncheon was served to the teachers. This was completely planned, cooked, and served by the students.

They learn about budgeting for a family, calories, and the basic foods needed for growth.

The girls do some sewing—each one of them has a project such as a dress, skirt or a blouse. They are taught what clothes are appropriate for every occasion.

Senior Books Arrive

"Hey, there, would you sign my memory books? Surely, by this time, all of the students of AHS have heard this question during the past week or so. The reason for this is because seniors who ordered their graduation announcements

These books are white with gold letters on the outside cover, saying "Memory Album." Then on the inside there is room for such things as "Big Wheels," "Class Doins," "Remember When," and "Proms and Parties."

With this selection, surely you can find a place for your mark.

CANDY SALES IN GYM

Haven't you missed seeing the candy counter out in the front hall? Well, the journalism class decided that the best location which provided comfort and room would be the concession booth in the gym.

The candy sales are still managed by the same people. The selection of candies is diversified as ever. If you feel that they should have a specific candy bar and you know others will buy it, turn the name of it to Pat Wells, or Ben Heltz, they will try to do something effective.

Time — hasn't that been changed? Yes, it was decided that it would be best to sell from 12:30 to 1 p.m. The candy salesmen have to eat their lunch, too.

Home Ec Is Home Living

Did you happen to notice a few children between the ages of 3 and 5 years running around AHS a few weeks ago? It isn't that our school is starting to take students at this ripe young age—Mrs. Ione Taylor's classes in home living were just practicing their learning on live children!

The girls planned and cooked a meal for the children, put them in bed for a nap, and later played games and practiced the art of telling stories to a child.

During their study of child care the girls have learned such things as what makes a child misbehave, how to tell stories that children will enjoy, and how to care for very small children.

Earlier in the year, grooming and manners were studied. A hair stylist visited their classes and showed them hair styles, how to wash and set hair, and about tints and dyes.

A unit in home decoration showed the girls how to furnish a home in a colorful and tasteful manner. They, also, learned what furnishings are best together.

The girls get actual practice in table setting and menu planning when they give a lunch-
