Spirit Is Rising

Although many people of Ashland say that the high school is lacking in school spirit, it seems time to point out how much improvement has been made.

Ashland high pep has risen considerably since the rally squad, band, pep club and flag girls started working together.

The rally squad should be congratulated on their good work in promoting pep in the student body. They have had more action in their yells and have done more this year than has ever been done for the school.

Ashland high band and their director Mr. Jerry Pierce, have worked songs in with the yells of Ashland high which has also helped raise pep in the student body.

The pep club has created pep by the stunt card section which they have started. They have also created more interest in their own club by having a new uniform made out of red corduroy.

The flag girls are to be commended on their excellent work during the half time of the game.

Let's keep up the good work and move further toward making Ashland high "the best" when it comes to school spirit.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To the Editor:
 Pick up the "Ashland Daily Tidings," and what is the first thing that will catch your eye? That this or that teenager has been picked up for anything from "beer busts" to every kind of grand larceny imaginable.
 "Whose fault; is juvenile

Lose Series To P. Cavemen

In the third quarter, the Cavemen really started hitting and pulled away. Harry Johnson led Bear scorers with 14 points.

Smoking and drinking, including "beer busts" and the like, who are we hurting besides ourselves, by getting in wrecks, picked up by the cops, and the number of other things that happen. I'll admit it seems FUN for some of us and gives us the feeling of being GROWNUP, but think of the other ways to have fun and feel grown-up, without having to lose the respect of others and have our privileges taken away from us at the same time.

Stealing or grand larceny: I'm not much of an authority on this as far as ever having a hand in it myself, but I've recently seen a nice person lose the respect he had been building up many years in this city. He thought he was really being "grown-up" and smart by doing it. He realized he was wrong when it was too late. I honestly believe it becomes an obsession with a person after a period of time.

We have got to realize these things and have the will-power to quit, for our own sakes, as well as future generations.

More than likely a lot of you are thinking as you read this that I'm somewhat of a "square." Maybe I am, but if you stop to think, most of us are in one way or another, I must say that I, for one, have a long way to travel before I even start to really become the nice person I'd like to be, but I'm working at it, so why don't you too? It might just turn out to be fun.

Carriage Poses Strange Problem

Our inquiring reporter asks this question of some of the brains (?) in AHS: "If you were given a perambulator what would you do with it?" They Reply:

During the first period, the Grizzlies used a "slow break" and managed to stay within 2 points of the Tornadoses as the quarter ended 16-14. However, at this stage in the game, Gene Parent, Bear scoring thro', had collected four personal fouls. Without Parent and the slow break, Medford continued to put on the pressure and finally won by 25 points.

Stu Baker, hard-driving guard, led Grizzly scorers with 16 points, followed by Phil Sword and Jerry Mickle with 8 apiece.

Norma Jean Kerns: I'd run away with it.

Jim Sutherland: Give it back. I don't know what it is.

Jeanne Eberhart: Put it in a pan and heat it.

Jim Smith: I'd kick 'em.

Gene Long: I wouldn't have one.

Sandy Sander: I'd put it in a glass case and keep it under observation.

Bill Workman: I'd call my "Twenty" and have her help me kill it.

It seems that those above aren't the "brains" after all — A perambulator is a baby carriage!

HOW DO I LOVE THEE

By Elizabeth Bear It Browning
 How do I love thee?
 Let me count the ways
 I love thee to the breadth that both my arms can reach
 When we are out of sight of parents seeing
 (In a dark place)
 I love thee to the level of the gas in the tank
 Of our new convertible; or money in the bank
 I love thee as an old man loves
 a snooze
 I love thee with a love I seem to lose
 Each time I see a cuter boy
 I love thee as truly as a baby loves a toy
 I love thee with each heartbeat,
 breath, or pulse;
 But I'd love thee better, if thou were someone else.
