

Sander's Slander

by Sandy Sander

A new semester has begun and new things are happening. Like Cathy Clark being tied to the flag pole which I suppose might be more fun than climbing it. Greg Fury and Al Lorenz were late for third period one day. The reason given — they couldn't get out of Alvin's car, which just goes to show what an asset door handles can be.

Mr. Lewis appeared after vacation in some real passionate clothes he had received for Christmas. There was a shirt which was pink, and matching bow tie and socks of pink and black. They were modeled gracefully in general assembly with a blue suit. If any of you missed the sensation ask Tom Swift to show you his clever sketch.

There's a man in Donna Dukenson's life. All anyone can find out is that his name is Willard. Tell us more Donna.

One of our younger teachers used a copy of Mrs. Taylor's poems (The Cremation of Sam McGee). The freshman class was very impressed particularly by the illustration. I hear the girl in the picture was a blonde.

We are starting a fund for suspenders for Ben Watrus. Maybe this will help him keep his pants up. No offense Benny really, Jerry Rodenmeyer was just playing a little trick.

Lots of girls get teased about knowing nothing of cars but what a change when two boys (namely) Bob Williams and Bill Workman have to go through so much straining and struggling just to find that a little jeep is only out of gas.

There was once a drag race between two 55 cars. Don't be surprised if you see Larry Kerr and Jim Busch blushing.

Park your horses in the back.

Car of the Month

By Jim Hall

Almost everyone enjoys seeing an early model car in good shape, and the owner of this month's car is Dick Trites, who owns a very clean, very sharp 1936 three window coupe.

Dick recently purchased this little jewel from Jim Busch Ford Sales. After receiving his receipt, he immediately rushed the Ford to his back yard, where a set of lowering shackles were installed.

Car in 'Mint' Shape
Other than the push button starter assembly, push pull light system and a few wrinkles in the fenders, the little Ford is in 'mint' condition.

The inside upholstery is in immaculate shape, with no tears or rips anywhere. Another point which shows this car's condition is the speedometer which shows only 70,000 miles of actual miles of travel. This indicates only slightly over 3,500 miles per year.

Has Original Color —
Dick's car is painted blue which is also the original color. The old light wire system was fouled up, so he has his starter button and headlight switch on the dashboard.

Later, Dick intends to have some mild changes in the style and operation.

If we were to evaluate this little bomb, we could only say, "It's the most."

ROGUE'S GALLERY

LOIS MAY

A blessed event occurred January 12, 1937, in Ellensburg, Washington, at the May house, for that was when Lois May made her first appearance in the world.

This senior girl has blond hair and hazel eyes, is secretary of National honor society and belongs to several other clubs.

Lois moved here in her junior year. Before coming to Ashland she attended school in Sandpoint, Idaho, and Big Sandy, Montana.

Some of her likes are dill pickles and the color blue. Her favorite subject is chorus and her favorite pastime is preparing things for her primary Sunday school class. Her pet peeve is people who keep changing their minds. She likes basketball and badminton.

When she gets out of school, Lois plans to attend S.O.C. and become an elementary teacher, preferably third grade.

The Lighter Side

Mr. Lewis: Why are you late this morning?

Heather MacDougall: Class started before I got here.

Al Lorenz: I flunked that quiz flat.

Bill Workman: What was the matter, didn't you know the answers?

Al: Yes, but I had vaseline on my hair and they slipped my mind.

Nancy Norbury: How are you this morning?

Marty Clary: All right.

Nancy: Well then, why don't you notify your face?

Tom Eidawick: Gonna be tough sledding today.

Jack Bear: Why?

Tom: No snow.

Ted Silver: Know what time it is?

Tom Carter: Yeah.

Ted: Thanks.

Jack Eberhart: How big is a paramedium?

Jerry Price: Twice as big as one meclum.

Sign on door of Atomic Research Division: Gone fission.

RICHARD LAMB

Just mention dancing and going to the show to Richard Lamb and you're sure to get comments; for these are his favorite pastimes.

Richard was born in Eupora, Mississippi in 1938.

Very active in the school activities, Richard is the editor of the annual this year. He also belongs to the band, debate team and honor society.

His appetite favors lemon pie and steak, but his favorite saying happens to be "Oh pork!"

As for the entertainment world, Richard likes the song, "Muskrat Ramble," and his favorite singers are Ethel Merman and Peggy Lee. He likes Les Paul also. Being a movie go'er he has picked Mitzi Gaynor and Marlon Brando as his favorite actress and actor.

Richard says his special girl must be a good dancer, have blond hair and blue eyes, wear high heels all the time, and — have a southern accent.

After graduation he plans to attend Stanford University.

Mystery Girl

This month's mystery girl is a freshman. She stands 5' 4 1/2", has shoulder length brown hair and hazel green eyes.

She lists her favorite food as chili beans; favorite pastimes are dancing and playing tennis.

Her special pals are Ruth Bean and Susan Weller.

The identity of this girl can be found in the ads of this issue.

LORRAINNE NEUMANN
Mt. Vernon, Washington, was the setting of the "event" which the stork delivered on February 14, 1937, for Mr. and Mrs. Neumann. They were blessed with a daughter, whom they named Lorraine.

Lorraine came to Ashland high at the first of this year. She is 5' 4" tall and has brown eyes. This gal may be seen a lot with Pat Keene, Donna Howell, Toby Fox and Sandy Anthous.

Her favorite color is dark green and she likes chinese foods.

Debbie Reynolds is Lorraine's favorite actress. When asked who her favorite actor was she stated, "anyone would do."

She's undecided as yet about what she plans to do after graduating from school.
