Prom Queen Announcement Due Saturday

By Charles Hillestad

On Saturday, May 11, the Annual Junior-Senior Prom will be held in the Britt Ballroom at Southern Oregon college. Each year the formal prom is given by the juniors in honor of the graduating seniors. This year, according to Connie Felger, the prom's social director, "The aims of the class will be to create something original and different, a new approach to an old theme." Princesses have been chosen; the band and the theme are selected. Everything is ready, but exactly what is everything?

Who are the princesses? Pictured above are the five finalists. The girls in the picture were chosen by a vote of the junior class. Tomorrow the juniors will vote again to pick the Queen. Only Terry Skibby, junior class president, will know the winner until, of course, she is announced during the prom.

Kay Moore in the picture on the far left is very popular with all her classmates, and active in student government. Kay is Yell Queen this year and has been on the rally squad since her sophomore year. Seniors voted Kay as Miss Ashland High School. This year she is on both Student Council and Inter-Club Council. The picture doesn't show it but she is 5'11" with dark blond hair and blue eyes.

Next to Kay Moore is Karen Wood. Karen works with Kay on the yell squad. One of the honors she won in high school was Queen of the 1962 Christmas Ball. Blond, 5'7" Karen describes her eyes as "changeable blue or green."

In the middle of the picture above is Sharon O'Keefe. Yell leading is her chief activity. Besides being on the yell team this year, Sharon served as a sophomore, junior, freshmen, and even junior high yell leader. She was Yell Queen on the frosh squad. Sharon's 5'6" is topped with brown hair and grey eyes.

Jody McCollister is the second from the right in the picture. Jody was nominated for Homecoming Queen twice, and won it in the 1962 football season. She has been a member of Flag Girls, Pep Club, and Student Council. Jody is another blond with blue eyes and she is 5'5" tall.

Sandy Hamilton, the final candidate, described herself as being exactly 5'5" tall with greenish eyes and light brown hair.

"The 1963 Prom promises to be one of the nicest and best A.H.S. ever had," Connie Felger divulged. The entire junior class has been working on it for six months in advance.

Although the Prom's theme cannot be disclosed a few hints can be dropped. There will be four centers of decoration or interest in the ballroom surrounded by "vivid, exciting, and sparkling colors."

Members of the junior class have paid $630 which amounts to about four dollars for each junior. About $160 went to pay for the dance band, the New Jazz Septet. This band will pay the

Juniors Publish "Cub" Edition

By A Senior

After eight months of hard work in preparation for the event, the five juniors on the Rogue News staff have put out this edition of the school paper.

Lonna Baizer reluctantly gave up her post to Kathy Tilford who will be editor next year. Kathy was the advertising editor this year and did a good job. She proved that she was capable of handling responsibility and promises to be a great editor next year.

Joe Raynes took over Bruce Bamforth's position of sports editor. Bruce was happy to see the job go. There were too many hats, balls, rackets, golf clubs, and javelins being thrown at him. Joe, former editor of his school's paper in Menlo Park, California, will be a big help to the Rogue News next year. His fresh ideas give the sports page a new light.

Penny Clements is the advertising manager for this edition. She's taking over Kathy Tilford's job.

Carol Hunter, assistant editor, Jerri Donigan are the other juniors who contributed their time and effort to this paper. Their stories give the paper a new quality.

entire four hours from eight to twelve.

Some of the honored guests at the ball will be the parents of the junior and senior class officers, the school administration, and the faculty. About 450 people are expected altogether.

"With all the planning and work that has gone into the prom," Connie stated, "everyone participating should find that it is the most exciting, glamorous social event of the school year."

Juniors Gain Recognition In Debate, Typing, English

Four members of the Ashland High student body have gained recognition both for themselves and their school in the past month. These students, all members of the junior class, are Trudee Lewis, John Siebert, Tim Thompson, and Jeff Trost.

Trudee Wins State Cup
If you're wondering why a bright, eager-faced girl was wandering around the halls carrying a huge trophy, it's because Trudee Lewis won the coveted spot of first place in humorous interpretive reading at the state speech tournament held in Corvallis, Saturday, April 20. In the past two years Trudee has won ten different honors in numerous debate tournaments.

Ashland High's debate team tied for third place sweepstakes honors with South Salem High school; both teams had four finalists. The four finalists from Ashland were Charles Hillestad, oration; Trudee Lewis, humorous interpretation; Dave Lohman, after-dinner speaking; and Dave White, impromptu. A total of 218 students from 56 Oregon schools participated.

Junior Takes Typing Honors
At the end of the election assembly on Thursday, April 25, Mike Colton, student body president, announced that John Siebert, a junior at Ashland High school, had won first place in the regional finals of the Fourth National Facit Accuracy Contest in typing. In this contest, which was held at the Metropolitan Business College in Seattle on Saturday, April 20, John typed 89 words a minute for five minutes without an error.

In addition to winning a Facit typewriter for his outstanding typing ability, John will go to New York City one month from now to participate in the national contest. If he wins this, John and his typing teacher will be awarded a free, all-expense-paid trip to Sweden where he would compete with the international winners.

English Teachers Pick Honor Students

Tim Thompson and Jeff Trost, Ashland High juniors, have been picked by the English department of Ashland High to represent this school in an English contest which gives recognition to outstanding high school English students.

In addition to writing an autobiography, Jeff and Tim will write an essay on a given topic in a certain amount of time and will also be given an impromptu speaking test on their knowledge of literature.

If they win, their names will be submitted to leading colleges in the nation.

Hectic Election Daze Over

By Chuck Hillestad

It's over, but the effects of the latest student body elections will last for an entire year. For two weeks 22 candidates sought offices that only 11 could fill. It was an exciting time for all the candidates, campaign managers, student body members, winners, and even the losers.

On April 31, the election activities began with the Monday Student Council meeting. The Student Council nominated candidates for each office to make sure that some one would fill each spot. These nominations turned to be quite accurate since all of those nominated won in their races.

Phase two in the week was poster-making time. Just before the campaign officially started on the 22, most of the posters were put up. Many of the signs were quite clever.

Assembly

Gum, suckers, and lapel pins were the order of the day until the campaign assembly on Thursday. Everyone gathered as the "captive" audience to hear the
