

PAM TUCKER
Photo by Whitland Locke

Vocational Fair Scheduled

Projects made by students throughout the year will be shown at the annual Vocational Fair to be presented from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m. on the evenings of May 24 and 25 in the Industrial Arts Building.

Mr. Mobley's shop classes will display such things as tables, stereos, chest of drawers, and a pool table.

House Plans

Mechanical drawings and a few house plans will be shown by Mr. Gebhard's mechanical drawing class.

Mr. James' classes will also display a variety of items which were made in crafts classes. From Miss McLarnan's home economics department there are a variety of original outfits. The styles cover the range of suits, coats, summer dresses, men's shirts, sports clothes, and formal. There are many types of material being used too, including voile, dotted swiss, wool, and brocade satin from Viet Nam.

Art Display

Students taking art from Mrs.

Trost will be represented by at least one piece of work. Among the things made this year are water color paintings, mosaics, ceramics, papier mache masks, and batiks.

During the two days, time will probably be taken out of class for every student to view the fair.

Tucker Selected For Prom Queen

Senior Pam Tucker reigned as queen of the "Roman Holiday," the Ashland Senior High School junior-senior prom for 1967. Pam's escort for the evening was Jerry Sessions.

Plans for the prom were under the supervision of junior class social chairman Judy Phelps. Also assisting were junior class president Jim Williams and junior class advisor Mr. Keith Mobley.

Decorations, carrying out a Roman motif, were in green and gold. A false ceiling with a gold marble design and matching ivy-covered pillars helped carry out the theme. A fountain and a silver chandelier were the focal point in the center of the room.

From assistants included Bob Goldsmith, doorkeeper; Linda Roberts, who was in charge of the guest book, and Jean Reynolds and Sharon Blair, who served punch. Several sophomore boys served as waiters.

Other members of the queen's court and their escorts included Danis Conklin and Gene Willis, Carolyn Hassell and John Mitchell, Kathy O'Harra and John Buck, Stevie Rice and Gary Hooper, Lillette Tumbagahan and Steve Hagert, Sandy Westgaard and Dick Calhoun, and Chris Wiley and Dennis Smith.

BRADSHAW HONORED

In the recent Miss Rogue Valley Pageant, Monte Bradshaw received the talent award. She performed a violin solo, playing "Concerto in A Minor."

Students Honored For Contributions

Two Ashland High School students were recently honored by school and community groups for their outstanding service to the school.

Judy Phelps was selected as citizen of the six-weeks by the citizen of the six-weeks committee and the student council. Jack Farmer was honored as boy of the month for April. Jack was selected by the student council and honored by the Ashland Kiwanis Club.

Judy received her honor of becoming citizen of the six-weeks because of her work on the prom. Judy is the social chairman of the Junior class. She has also served as Sophomore class secretary. Judy is also a member of the debate team and the vice-president of the choir.

In addition to her work on the prom, Judy also directed the planning and decoration for the Sadie Hawkins dance last fall. In the recent student body elections, Judy was selected as yell queen for next year.

Jack received the honor of boy of the month for April because of his work all year as chairman of the SSS committee, and recently for his work on the bottle drive. Money collected from the bottle drive will be donated to the firemen's rescue unit.

Besides his work as chairman of the SSS committee, Jack has also participated in basketball, track, and football. Jack is also active in Letterman's club.

Prometheus Choice Made

Eleven sophomores and juniors were recently selected to participate in the second annual Project Prometheus on the Southern Oregon College campus next summer.

Those students chosen were: Jane Belland, Chris Houghton, Emily Hungerford, Kris Kell, James Kreiman, Todd Merriam, Gary Prickett, Sandra Schoenover, Janie Smith, Jonathan Smith, and James Stephenson.

Project Prometheus is a planned six-week residential summer school for able high school students. The basic requirements are a relatively high IQ and a fairly high GPA. It is a humanistic and social science-oriented school to be held on SOC campus this summer.

The Promethean can choose two of twenty-eight classes, one for each three-week section. Fields included in the class selection include the sciences, social sciences, and humanities, of a nature that is not pursued in the average high school. The average high school students have a certain amount of mandatory homework. The Promethean is entirely on his own when it comes to studying the materials required of them.

In addition to class work, the students also attended the Horizon program. These programs consist of plays, concerts, operas, art shows, ballet, and visits to local points of interest.

In an effort to enlighten his mind and enhance his imagination, the Promethean begins his day with the perspective program, a series of lectures about different controversial subjects. Each week of the six spent at the project has its own controversial subject. The following topics were used for lectures during last year's session: ethnocentrism, urbanization, technology and human values, aspirations and emergence of underdeveloped nations, self and society, and leadership in a multicultural world.

Bands Exchange School Concerts

The Myrtle Point High School Band presented an exchange concert to the Ashland High Student Body May 8, in the Ashland High School gym.

The Myrtle Point Band arrived in Ashland Sunday, May 7 and spent the day on Mt. Ashland. They were then treated to a potluck dinner presented by the Ashland High Band. The visiting band members then stayed overnight with various members of the AHS band.

Ashland High's Band will return the visit of the Myrtle Point Band on May 21.

Seniors Still Lead In SSS Competition

SSS competition is led by the seniors as the final challenges are being completed. The seniors have won nine challenges, the sophomores have won six, and the juniors have won only three. The winning class will be awarded a half day off at Jackson Hot Springs May 25.

SSS day will be an afternoon of swimming and class competition between Biology, U.S. History, or Modern Problems classes. The students will leave by bus before noon and eat sack lunches at the Hot Springs. They will be allowed to wear grubbies.

The money from the bottle drive held last week will go to buy equipment for the firemen's rescue unit. The next challenge will be based on which class has the highest grade point average taken from the honor roll and honorable mention list. SSS chairman, Jack Farmer, hopes to have one last challenge, a campus clean-up, if the weather clears up.

Student Leaders Selected

STUDENT LEADERS selected in the recent elections to serve in the student body offices next year are: (l. to r.) Kathy Hill, second vice-president; Kathy Zollman, treasurer; Alan Engstrom, student body president; Steve Hagert, first vice-president; and Nonda Ainsworth, secretary.