Brownie Pink Floyd's Dark Side of the Moon album is a musical masterpiece. Few groups have ever matched its sound together like this one. They have a much more electronic sound that is heard in this way on previous cuts. Three VOC-3 synthesizers are used plus organs, guitars, keyboards, vocals, percussion, and tape effects. The group was formed in London, but six other people are used on the album. One is a largely electronic sound effects, but there are some excellent vocals also. The second side starts off with the popular song "Money." This song tends to stand apart from the others in that it's probably the only one that could definitely be classed as a rock song. The other tracks are usually pretty mellow, and they run together in such a way that it's often hard to tell where one song ends and the next starts. This album could place Pink Floyd as one of the classic groups of their time.

Segal Note: Music fans will want to attend the Festival to be held Sept. 24-26 at 7:00 p.m. at Argus Stadium in Klamath Falls. Admission is free.

Interest Lacks Wrecks Campus Clubs

Whether it is first-of-the-year blues or total lack of interest, Ashland High School clubs are rapidly approaching a bygones age.

Grizzly Knights, International Relations League (I.R.L.) and Quill and Scroll (which involves the A.H.S. journalism staff) have not been active for approximately two years.

Interclub council President, Steve Dusdenrader said that "students apathy was partly to blame for the slump in interest."

Commenting on International Relations Society, Steve Dusdenrader felt that certain clubs were no more than talk within the school. In its constitution, members of I.R.S. are asked to trim their heads, keep their whisker lengths to six inches below and to wear clothes 1/20 of the time.

"Leadership and leadership are necessary for a successful club," said Rosemary Olsen. Olsen is presently involved in drama club which is one of the few active clubs on campus.

Drama Club is presently engaged in the preparation of producing "The Diary of Anne Frank." Another reason that club interest is lacking is dissipation which many founders, leaders and enthusiastic members have graduated through the years and all that remains is a framework which they have built.

How to arouse more interest in clubs is the next question. Varsity cheerleader, Cindy Jones maintains that one solution may be "for the school to give clubs more recognition than what they have been receiving."

Contrary to this, Debbie Coughill believes that "club disinterest is just a lack of organization in the early part of the year."

Two weeks ago it was not an uncommon sight to view several bombers flying low over Ashland in an attempt to contain the summer forests. With the coming of the autumn rains, Ashland has experienced this week, the autumn season may finally be over for 1972.

Think-Tank In For Schools

The drowning of computer simulations has finally reached the AHS campus. Science teacher John Barlow gave his thoughts concerning the proposed science trend.

He said, "If a person would have told me five years ago that we (AHS) would be able to simulate experiments on a computer… I'd probably have told them that they were crazy." This simulation, as Keith Gar- rison, teacher of the Math and Science Council on Computer Education, said, "enables agricultural science experiments, but can be utilized for such projects as the simulation of a man's heart, the positions of the planets, or any given position. To name a few."

The Ashland Senior High is one of seven schools that are in this system. The other schools are Phoenix, Medford Senior High, Medford Mid High, Eagle Point, Crater and Grants Pass. It was purchased through the combination of I.R.S. funds and Federal funds.

Books

For those who watched the BBC presentation "The Six Wives of Henry VIII" and became interested in the characters involved, there is hope. Mary St. Luke's book A Crown for Elizabeth looks at the human side of history and is a book that gives the reader a feeling that he knows all of the characters personally. It is an actual quote from Henry VIII, his wives, his children, and others. It also contains pictures and excerpts of letters these people wrote to each other. The book is entit- led to her brother Edward VI and, since it is in English and in mind that true love consists, such as the name of the book. It is a book that will be enjoyed by most any reader.

A Crown for Elizabeth is well written, carefully researched, and highly readable. Although this book is not available in the AHS library, it is worth the reader's time and effort to get his hands on it at the Public Library.
