The Occidental Lumber Company now have 100,000,000 feet of lumber floating in the Willamette river and the first logs are expected to arrive tomorrow. All the mills around Corvallis are running to their full capacity and still there is a scarcity of lumber.
A new cement walk is being constructed by the Masonic fraternity and John Engle in front of their respective properties on South Second street. It should be extended the full length of the block which might save some pedestrian from unjoining his neck during the night.
The Occidental Lumber Company are handicapped by the gravel bar forming in the river below the ferry and in order to clean it out they have made a proposition to the city to furnish them gravel on this side of the river at the same price they have been paying at the bar on the other side or will put it on the street at the same price they have been paying.
A petition, with many signatures, has been presented to the council making a protest against the wide curbing and the council has taken the question under advisement. It is the earnest desire of all good citizens that this matter may be amicably adjusted so as to secure uniformity in the work and thus encourage property owners to beautify their homes.

OAC REMINISCENT AND HISTORICAL

success to the directing and guiding mind of Professor Gatch. He is one of the pioneers of pioneers in the line of higher education of the Pacific Coast, and now at a ripe age he retires with the honors and with the blessings of many of the younger people of the state, who were by him directed in the pathway of honor and success. Under his administration new vigor and new life were felt in every department. To him is due in a great measure the splendid institution that now tells upon the activities and development of the material resources of Oregon, as well as upon the social life and character of its citizens.

Upon Dr. Gatch's resignation, Dr. Kerr was elected to the presidency May 2, 1907, and since his inauguration, in the summer of 1907, the Mechanic Arts Building, Agronomy Building, Y. M. C. A. Building and the new barn have been built. Alpha Hall has been transformed into the Pharmacy Building, and the blacksmith shop into a mining laboratory. At the present time the following buildings are under contemplation: Central Agricultural Building, at a cost of $55,000; central heating plant, $35,000; armory and drill hall, $30,000, and greenhouses, $5,000. The course in Literary Commerce has been changed to Commerce; also Household Science to Domestic Science and Art. Several new industrial courses have been introduced, and it is announced that the standard for entrance to the freshman year next fall will be raised one year. At the time of penning these lines (April 3) the entire registration for the year is 1,346 students, classified as follows: 1,096 regular students; 225 short course students, and 59 students in music—34 being counted twice. The number of professors and instructors is about 70, as against the two forty-four years ago. In his recent biennial report to the Board of Regents, President Kerr said: "In this great work of industrial education, the Oregon Agricultural College is in harmony with the spirit and policy of the best land-grant institutions of the country. Its function and scope are clearly indicated in provisions of the federal and state laws under which it is maintained. It is the purpose of the college to meet the needs of the people for a liberal and practical education, and to promote the development of the varied resources and industries of the state."

Twenty years ago the most enthusiastic predictions of supporters of technical training were that the Oregon Agricultural College might reach a patronage of five hundred students within a quarter of a century. Ere the college will have run its first quarter, two thousand students will enroll annually. This is easily computed, for much of it is inscribed in the records. But who is there that can estimate the future with its increasing thousands? What of the second quarter century? What will our commonwealth be when stamped with the impress of cultured workmen and trained housewives going out yearly in great patriotic armies to develop and defend the country? Oregon is beginning to reach higher staidhood; and the OAC is choosing a niche in history where she will honor her worthy students and perpetuate the memory of the departed Cauthorn, Arnold, Belknap, Clark, and Coote with the names of those whose lives are steadily and surely burning out on per altars.

ANOTHER MILL NOW ASSURED

COMMERCIAL CLUB AGREES TO HELP BUY SITE

READY TO BEGIN IN OCTOBER

Proposition of Gerlinger and McCready Approved at Last Night's Meeting And Generous Subscriptions Quickly Raised to Aid Purchase of Location.

The progressive people of Corvallis are quick to take advantage of every opportunity that tends to benefit the city. This was evidenced last night at the special meeting of the Corvallis Commercial Club, called to consider a proposition from Gerlinger & McCready to erect a big saw mill here, provided substantial help could be had to buy a site, for when it was found that the offer was made in good faith, the Club quickly approved it and by generous subscriptions assured the raising of the necessary amount.
Gerlinger & McCready's offer was to construct and equip a modern saw mill of at least 35,000 feet daily capacity and to have it in operation by October 1, if half the purchase price of the site down on Avery's flats, $1,100, was contributed by the people of this city.
The proposition was thoroughly discussed and accepted by the Club and the work of raising subscriptions at once begun, over half the required amount being pledged before the meeting adjourned.
This prompt and commendable action assures another big industry for Corvallis, and one that will give a large and constantly increasing pay roll, for it is the intention of the new mill men to enlarge the capacity of the plant right along and to also operate a big furniture factory in connection, as soon as necessary arrangements can be made.
A few more industries like this would be the greatest help to the city and there is plenty of raw material in this immediate section to supply many such wood working enterprises.

Fred Quick Hurt In Runaway
Fred Quick met with an accident yesterday about a mile and a half this side of Monmouth, which resulted in his being seriously injured.
He was moving a load of household goods from here for Samuel Jackson and at the time had stopped the team to fix the harness. In doing so he stood in front of the horses, which suddenly started, knocking him down and running over him, badly cutting his ankle and severely bruising him about the hip and head.
The horses ran for a considerable distance and finally ditched the load, when they were caught.
Mr. Quick was given every attention and it is thought that he will not suffer any permanent serious consequences from the accident.

Good Business Bringer

Corvallis is reaping the benefit of the building of the Carver railroad into the Alsea timber district, a second large sawmill company being organized there. It is rumored that Carver will extend this road from Monroe to Blackly, tapping the Lake Creek country in Lane county and turning that trade into Corvallis. It would look as if it is up to Eugene to get busy before rival towns divide up her best territory. —Eugene Guard.

Singers Wanted

A large number of singers are wanted to form the chorus for the fifth of July exercises. First rehearsal Monday June, 21st at 7:30 o'clock p. m. at the Presbyterian Church. Prof. Gaskins, director of the OAC School of Music, will have charge of the music and hopes that who all like to sing will lend their assistance. 6-19-2t

Fifteen Cents For Hops

Local bull hopmen are jubilant over the news contained in a telegram received today from California to the effect that, 1909 hops had been sold there at 12 cents. Thirteen to 13 1-2c is the best figure quoted in this vicinity while old hops range from 8 cents for 1906, to 10 cents for the 1908 crop.
Chief Wells received a letter Friday from N. Solomon, the Portland pawnbroker, in which that worthy lays claim to the entire reward for capturing the courthouse robbers. He also threatens the chief with legal proceedings if he ever is found in Portland, all of which don't worry the efficient guardian of the peace in the least.
