Come see author Mary Vine
at Turn the Page Books on 1st Street in Baker City,
June 25, 2015, 6 PM!

When Mary first started writing at age 36, she was shy about telling anyone. Finally, she gained enough courage to take a few chapters to her neighbor, a retired high school English teacher. With her friend's encouragement, she went on to have four magazine articles on ghost towns in Northeast Oregon published, and is a multi-published fiction author.

In Mary's other life, she teaches speech and language to K-12 students and you can usually find her in Southwest Idaho or NE Oregon.

"Live dangerously," he joked. She had no idea how serious the danger would become.

The dilapidated motel and gas station next to the Snake River look like the set for a zombie movie—and Hailey Burke has just inherited the whole mess after finishing college. Now, armed with a business degree, a crowbar, and a few cans of paint, Hailey is setting out to make a calm, practical living for herself. Until FBI agent Jacob Hayden Robie, a man she knew for one day, and lost oh-so-many years ago, steps through the door...
