Harry J. Galloway

Baker City, 1916-2015

On November 1, 2015, Harry J Galloway left his earthly home to be with the Lord.

He was 99 years old and lived in Baker City, Oregon with his wife of 46 years, Phyllis Chee Galloway, whom he met in Melbourne, Australia.

Most people knew Harry as Slim. He was the son of Silas and Viola Haring Galloway, and was born on October 16, 1916 in Kingstons, PA.

Harry was predeceased by his sisters, Emma Mader Whitney and Edith Vandermark, and his brothers, Charles and Emory Galloway.

He is survived by his brother, Edgar Galloway, and Neva Pond, who live in Reading, PA, and by his two children, Charles Dale Galloway (wife Marjorie) and Evelyn Shelton (husband Donald), and step sons, Edward Patton (wife Karen) and Elwood Patton (wife Carolyn).

They were a pipeline family and the sons all worked, for at least part of their lives, as heavy equipment operators all around the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii.

Harry also worked in Saudi Arabia, Australia, and Guam.

He was blessed with grandchildren: Jon, David, and Edward Patton, and Sierra Galloway; great grandchildren, Alexandra, Rebekah, Nathanael, and Hannah Patton, and great-great grandson, Bryson Hargrove.

Harry was lead scout and sniper on the China/Burma/India campaign during WWII with Merrill's Marauders.

He walked most of the Burma Road during that stint in the U.S. Army. He received a Good Conduct medal, AS/PAC THR SER MED with three Bronze Stars and Victory Medal. Also Harry piloted for many years in the Civil Air Patrol.

In May of this year, Harry and his son Dale travelled to Washington D.C. with the Oregon Honors Flight, where WWII veterans were honored for their service to our country.

Harry especially loved when school children came up to him to shake his hand and thank him for his service as they toured the monuments around the city.

He enjoyed playing music, hunting and fishing, and had many hobbies, including running his hunting dogs, knapping stone arrowheads, and gardening.

Even late into his 90s, Harry walked the blocks around his neighborhood to stay fit and tended his backyard chickens.

Harry was a fierce soldier, committed husband, loving father, wild explorer of the woodlands, and tireless fisherman and marksman.

Last year at age 98, he shot his final elk, and was hoping to get a tag for a buffalo this year.

Harry enjoyed hunting and fishing with his friends, Todd Calloway, Al McMillen, and Byron Henry.

His boyhood friends from Pennsylvania remember tales of Harry providing deer meat for families during the Great Depression and of having the pleasure of working with him on various pipelines.

He claimed that Pennsylvania and Oregon were the prettiest states in the Union, but stayed in Oregon for the wider range of hunting and fishing.

His twinkling eyes, great storytelling, and his love will be greatly missed. "Remember," he would say, "to never let anyone get you down." He lived life with a smile on his face.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be offered in memory of Harry J Galloway to:

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital through Gray's West & Company Pioneer Chapel, 1500 Dewey Ave., Baker City, OR 97814.
