Vale IOOF Hall listed in Nat’l Register

The Vale IOOF Hall was constructed in 1908 and served as a center for community activities in the town of Vale for decades. The Independent Order of Odd Fellows Lodge #100 was founded in 1885 in Glennville, Oregon, and moved (including its meeting hall) to Vale in 1887 when that city became the seat of the newly-formed

Malheur County. In addition to fulfilling the IOOF's mission to "Visit the Sick, Relieve the Distressed, Bury the Dead, and Educate the Orphan," it served as a dance hall and meeting space for most fraternal organizations in the community, as well as the location of several Vale businesses. Designed by regionally prolific architect Herbert W. Bond, the two-story, brick and stone building stands prominently at the primary intersection in town, directly across the street from the Drexel Hotel, also designed by Bond, built almost simultaneously with the IOOF Hall, and also listed in the National Register.
