Northern Judge Bans Adoption; Has Dixie Views

CLEVELAND, Ohio, —A Northern judge who couldn't have served the cause of segregation better had he been sitting in a Southern court last week barred the adoption of a child of mixed racial background by an interracial couple.

Probate Court Judge Leonard S. Frost denied the adoption application of the couple—a white American former soldier and a Japanese mother on the grounds that if "The good Lord" intended the races to be mixed "he would have done so."

The paradox of the whole affair is that the child, a 2 1/2 years old girl is also of mixed parentage. She is the daughter of an English mother and Puerto Rican father.

The couple has appealed the decision.

Ben Davis Draws Jeers, Boos At Univ. of Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS — American Communist Benjamin Davis drew jeers, boos, some laughter and occasional applause when he addressed an overflow audience of about 6,000 at the University of Minnesota last week.

A 30-man university police force stood by to keep order and ejected one heckler who demanded the right to speak during Davis' talk. Other hecklers were warned to remain orderly.

Davis, under federal indictment for failure to register as a foreign agent under the McCarran Internal Security Act, bitterly criticized the law.

Davis' right to appear had been defended by Dr. O. Meredith Wilson university president. Davis was sponsored by the campus Socialist club.

Quick-Draw Grocer's Gun Fails to Fire

SAN JOSE, Calif.— Sam Bozzie jr. was ready, he took aim, but his "trusty" pistol wouldn't fire.

Bozzi grabbed the pistol from under his grocery counter last week and chased a holdup man fleeing with $20 from the cash register. He pulled the trigger three times but nothing happened. Afterwards, Bozzi recalled the gun had never been fired since his father bought it and put it under the counter in 1922.

Police caught and booked Glen Olan Reeves, 33, of San Jose, on suspicion of the robbery.

Second Top Bull Story of the Week

LONDON.— Next to the stinging defeat handed Eugene "Bull" Connor in the Birmingham, Ala. primary elections, last week's best bull story took place here in foggy Londontown.

The Evening Standard reported spotting this "no trespassing" sign on a country fence enclosing a ferocious bull: "Survivors will be prosecuted."

Meanwhile, back in the States, segregationist Connor ran fifth in the field of candidates for Governor in Alabama.

Says the 'X' That Marked the Spot Wasn't His

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.— —An operator of a nursing home, who is alleged to have forged a physically disabled tenant's "X" to two government checks, was arrested and arraigned the same day before U. S. Commissioner John A. Banks.

The accused woman, Mrs. Odessa Bibbs, 47, waived hearing, and her bond—which she made—was set at $1,000.

Mrs. Bibb, is the operator of a nursing and rest home. Secret Service agent allege that she forced two government checks payable to Carroll W. Moszee, each in the amount of $80. These were disability insurance payments which Moszee, because of his physical condition, could not endorse with his full signature, with his just using an "X."

Moszee claims that he did not authorize his signature on the two checks, nor did he receive any money from them.

Even the Eagle Turns His Nose

JACKSON, Miss.— The gold eagle on the capitol dome here in Jackson usually faces southward. However, high winds during a recent storm turned the great bird's head eastward.

Rep. Jim Mathis of Leake County, Miss., sought to gain House action on a resolution asking the capitol commission to leave the eagle facing eastward. The Mississippi House declined to consider the measure, of a variety that generally pop up late in a session. This was said to be an indication of adjournment fever among legislators.

But getting back to the eagle, some observers felt it was just fed up with the segregation stench from Dixie and decided to turn its head
