

PROFESSOR LOVE AIDS SENIORS IN PROFESSION

Intelligence and Self-Analysis Tests Are Given.

Professor L. L. Love of the Oregon Agricultural College, addressed the Seniors of West Linn High School, Monday, November twenty-fourth. He remained at the High School from the twenty-fourth to the twenty-sixth. His business was to not only help the undecided students choose their life work, but aid those who have decided, by producing facts which might be of some benefit to them.

In his talk to the seniors, Professor Love said that all students in high school might be divided into one of three classes. In class one are found those who have made their choice and have their plans laid out. In class two are those who have chosen their profession, but do not have many of the necessary facts concerning their choice. Those who have no idea whatsoever what they wish to be, are found in the third class.

Three years ago the Rotary Club of Portland asked succor of the Oregon State College, to aid the high school students in choosing their professions. Men were sent, and since that time this assisting the students in such decisions has progressed until now it is a state-wide activity.

Monday, West Linn students were given an intelligence test and a self-analysis test.

It is hoped these talks with Professor Love will prove very beneficial.

GLEE CLUBS

The glee clubs, although they have not given any programs, are working hard and will be ready to sing for the student-body very soon.

Several operettas have been discussed but so far none has been decided on.

Music on many occasions, has been furnished by the girls' trio and boys' quintet, however. The boys and girls belonging to these organizations work diligently and often to prepare numbers to sing so they can spread West Linn's fame. By going to Portland and Oregon City to sing they show that West Linn still has a good lively spirit among its students and that West Linn doesn't have a breakdown just because they can't win a football game.

The fact that Poe wrote "The Gold Bug" is no sign that he was a millionaire.

While the postman may not be a flirt all the girls get love letters from him.

Assemblies of Interest Presented to Students

Two assemblies were held Monday, November 17, which reminded the upper classmen of the "good old times."

The first assembly was Miss Kathryn Inwood's. Her number on the faculty program was contributed by the Albany College mixed octet, boys quartet, and a tenor solo.

Numbers rendered by the college students were, "Where Is Sylvia," "In The Time of Roses," and other selections. "On The Road to Mandalay," was the tenor solo.

The program was quite well received, the boys quartet proving the most popular with the audience.

The second program was put on by two students of Willamette University. One of them proved to be a magician of no mean talent. One of his tricks was to tear a paper napkin in shreds and by a twist of the wrist and have it appear whole again. Other stunts were performed with billiard balls and silk handkerchiefs. The second student gave a short talk on the Willamette-Whitman game, played November 22, and won by Whitman College of Walla Walla.

Dennis E. Kidby, piano teacher of Oregon City, favored the students of West Linn High with a number of classical selections. This was Miss Jurgens' program which was the morning of the 24. Mr. Kidby played the following selections: "The Harmonious Blacksmith"—

GIRLS ENTERTAIN

The Freshman girls entertained the Girls League with a program, Tuesday afternoon, November 18. Genevieve Jones played a number on the piano and Mina Davidson and Lois Holland entertained with popular songs. Margaret Swope spoke a short, witty selection.

BANKING

The percentage of banking on November fourth was 83.4%. This is lower than that of the week previous, which percentage was 84.6.

The cry of "batter up" now heard, is not a warning that the dough is rising.

"Education" Is Topic of C. A. Howard's Talk

State Superintendent of Schools, Charles A. Howard, visited West Linn high school, November 13. He spoke to the students on the subject of education and its advantages. He told the students to study so as to be able to get more out of their school work. Mr. Howard also mentioned that plenty of sleep was necessary for a student going to school; also that the teachers can not do all the work, they can not educate the students. They must do their part.

Mr. Gary started his teaching career at Coquille, Oregon under the able supervision of Mr. Howard. Miss Baker also started teaching under the present State Superintendent of Schools at Marshfield.

A musical program was given in honor of Mr. Howard. The students sang "Oregon, My Oregon" as that is Mr. Howard's favorite.

The high school orchestra, under the direction of Miss Kathryn Inwood, made its first public appearance at the Student Body Play, Friday, November 21. The numbers they played were: "Our National Honor March," William Grant Brock; "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," Lochhart and Sectg; "Spirit of the West," H. A. Hummer; "Gypsy Love Song," Victor Herbert.

The band this year under the direction of Mr. Wetmore plan a more successful year than in the past. Mr. Wetmore hopes to go down to Corvallis and capture first place in the band contest held there.

There are 33 members in the band. They have played for every football game but one; that being the Molalla and West Linn game on the home grounds.

Some men imagine themselves so good that they want their reward on earth.

Mr. Shearer: James why do you sit there and scratch your head?

Jim P.: Because I am the only one that knows it itches.

He arrives about 12 o'clock, and obtains the key from the caretaker. Elijah and his wife both swear that it is the only key in existence that will unlock the door to the inn.

About half an hour later, after the caretakers have gone, Magee hears someone entering the house. He overhears a conversation in which Bland tells Cargan that $200,000 is waiting for him at the inn. One by one during the night, Mary Norton and Mrs. Rhodes, Peter, Myra Thornhill, Lou Max and Jim Cargan, and Thomas Hayden with John Bland come to the hotel after the money. Magee fools them all, and keeps them there until Mary Norton has arrived at Reuton with the money. She calls from Reuton saying that she has lost the money. While Magee is answering the telephone, the crooks overpower him and tell Mary Norton to come back to the hotel. During the excitement, Lou Max shoots Myra Thornhill for trying to double cross him. The police are called for, and the blame is laid on Magee by common consent of the rest. By the time the police arrive the body had disappeared. It was carried away by Peter the hermit. In trying to unravel the mystery the chief of police is tempted to steal the money and go to Canada, but is prevented. The owner of Baldpate arrives at the last moment to explain that the people are not really
