

Fathers Give Son's Banquet

By GLENN CAMPBELL

On Tuesday, December 3rd, at 6:30 p. m., the rafters of West Linn high school's cafeteria will resound to the pleasant sound of men and boys enjoying what is slated to be a gastronomical extravaganza. I better add in way of explanation that next Tuesday is the date set for the Father and Son Banquet. A banquet has been an annual affair here at West Linn and has been sponsored by the Boys club, but this year the dads plan to reverse the procedure by first giving the boys a treat and sponsoring a banquet themselves. The father-son supper sponsored by the boys will be held in the spring as usual. The Dads club under the leadership of Mr. Elliott and Mr. M. I. Gillette have sent out invitations to all the dads and all remains in readiness for next Tuesday.

As far as your reporter could find out the annual tug of war between the dads and the sons will not be held, but the program that is planned to follow the banquet promises to be a really enjoyable entertainment.

The boys are urged by the Dads club to get behind the banquet and their dads so as to be sure they attend, so that this year's Father and Son banquet can be the most successful in West Linn's history.

CLUB ADVICE

By SMOKEY ANDERSON

The success of any group, large or small, depends on the attitude taken by the individual person in the group. To establish an attitude that is helpful to all, one must have some part in the group and it is this need that the clubs and activities of West Linn high are fulfilling.

To a freshman the student body is his or her main object, and as the year goes on and he comes into contact with the school, he finds that he has the privilege to enter the student body activities that are the foundation of the democratic government. The legislatures, the court, the cabinet, the police force, and many others are the opportunities, that a student desires.

The greatest ambition of any student is to make good in his chosen subject. That desire enables him under the competent leadership of his advisors to join the club that is sponsored by this subject. For instance a French student may join the French club, a German student the German club and a large number of other clubs, sponsored by the subject.

Still another group of clubs that a student may join are the honor clubs. Under this group comes the Hi-Y and the Honor society. The greatest boost that a student can have to get in these clubs is the fact that he is a member, taking active part, in as many other clubs as possible.

The music department of West Linn offers a grand opportunity for a musical student. The band, heading the group, is just one of the many fields offered by this department.

One of the largest and most active clubs in the school is the F. F. A. club. This club sponsored by the Agricultural department is in a nation wide organization and the West Linn chapter is one of those well known in the state.

The two largest clubs in West Linn, are the Boys club and Girls league. The requirements that a student must meet to be a eligible for membership is that they must attend West Linn and that the school be foremost in their mind. These two clubs are perhaps better known than any other in school in as much as their work is carried on directly with parents of all students and it is often remarked that the work done by the Boys club and Girls League, is outstanding, socially and educational.
