Royal Court To Reign Over May Fete

West Linn's royal May court for 1949 will reign over today's activities in regal fashion. Beauties to Bedeck Bright May Setting

Mystic fairy-like grandeur will cast a spell over this year's May Queen and court as Queen Eleanor I and her royal attendants rule over the May day festivities. One wave of any magic wand will take you speeding into fairyland, unequalled in beauty and enchantment, where only the loveliest of maidens may rule. You will hear from a golden throated trumpet a fanfare of bewitching quality and look up to see the royalty of this wonderland pass in review.

Drifting along a cloud lined path will be Queen Eleanor, gowned in soft white organdy; Jerry Town will proudly escort the Queen to her throne, preceded by crown bearer Craig Deming. The train bearers will be Joe Seeley and Gregory Etchisen.

Maid-of-honor Lois Patterson, escorted by Dick Duval, will wear a filmy light green frock to enhance her golden-brown hair. Pixies Heather Brandt and Johnny Bolzell will announce her arrival. Tiny Cheryl Moles and Alan Moehnke will precede Princess Dolores Olson, who will catch the sunbeams to color her pretty yellow dress. For her escort, Dolores has chosen Larry Goldade. EDITOR TO STRIVE FOR FRANK AWARD

Selected as one of the fifteen finalists for the fourteenth annual Aaron M. Frank Scholarship, Jean Hartman, senior, will journey to Portland Saturday, May 7, to be interviewed by the scholarship committee at the Portland hotel. This committee will make its decision as to who is the winner of the $1000 four-year scholarship at a luncheon that noon.

One contender from each high school in Oregon is selected by a faculty committee from his school. The fifteen finalists are chosen from these and one is appointed as receiver of the scholarship which may be applied to any college or university the winner chooses.

With a grade point average of 1.047, Jean has received a straight 1 grade during her high school education except for two 2's given in an unacademic subject.

QUEEN ELEANOR I TO REIGN SUPREME

Marking the finale of her high school days, gracious Queen Eleanor I will reign over the 30th annual May Day festival with her usual charm and friendliness.

The enhancing Queen is 17 years old, weighs 130 pounds, and is 5 feet 5½ inches tall. Her smooth olive skin is well set off by dark brown hair and dark brown eyes that are always sparkling with merriment.

Being an accomplished vocalist, Queen Eleanor I has sung first soprano with the nonette during the last four years. In addition, she "walked away" with a gold cup at the State Junior Competitive Festival in Portland.

Movies have become a mad passion with this dark-eyed beauty and ranks high in her list of pastimes. She loves to participate in as well as watch all sports including bowling, basketball, volley ball, golf, swimming, and softball. Her yen for hiking is largely responsible for that trim figure.

Another accomplishment of this vivacious brunette is the art of cooking—could it be she has many evenings of practice cooking for Jerry? Her ability to wield a paint brush has marked her as an outstanding artist, incidentally, that's painting pictures, not houses.

Queen Eleanor I welcomes her "subjects" today with the hope of making May Day of 1949 a true reflection of the amiable and jovial spirit of the festive event.
