

Students dance at last Wednesday night's glow party, held in the Old Commons. ASB purchased blacklights for the dance as well as passing out highlighters to the students who attended.

Students Start Semester Rejuvenated

Benjamin Morrow, senior, introduces DJ Tophie aka Christopher Jonsson, freshman, as he pumps up the crowd for the blacklight party on Wednesday night. The crowd was made up of students from all classes but was overwhelmingly female.

Sam Edwards, Kyle Gotchall, Mark Gorewicz and James Gunther, seniors, take time out of the day to relax and enjoy the couches, canopy and lanterns. ASB officers dedicated many hours outside of school to create a peaceful and stress-free atmosphere.

Rene Bernert and Timothy Burton, seniors, stroll down the hallway which was decorated with clouds and serene lighting. Yellow and blue tissue paper was used to cover the lights in an attempt to create a relaxing atmosphere.

Melissa Christensen, senior, grins through a face pad as she receives a 10 minute massage from a Cambridge College student. Free massages were offered Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday in the Forum at lunch.

Gabriell Harper and Keyona Brennan, freshmen, take advantage of the schoolwide ten second scream. The healthy release of frustration was followed by 50 seconds of silence.
