Aries (March 21-April 19)

You're swamped with extra responsibilities this month, but determined to show what you can do. Keep your wits about you and you could achieve something very special. Opportunities arising at this time give you the chance to get closer to your main goals.

Taurus (April 20-May 20)

Private matters need attention. Perhaps you shouldn't have too many set plans. You may have to drop a job when it's only halfway through and this could cause you some inconvenience. It's a great time for personal enjoyment and rewards through friends and contacts, so don't be afraid to venture out.

Gemini (May 21-June 20)

Regular visitors and social invitations make it hard for you to find time to simply relax.

Someone comes up with some adventurous plans and you wonder whether they realize what they're letting themselves in for.

Cancer (June 21-July 22)

With the sun at the top of your chart, you will be working on your main aims now. As the month ends, there's a team spirit in the air when working with a group. While complicated towards the end of the month, great satisfaction from business affairs is likely to lift your spirits.

Leo (July 23-August 23)

Travel is likely to provide the break you are in desperate need of even if once you are on the road journeys aren't as straightforward as anticipated. Your goals are clear and you are less likely to give off confusing or mixed signals to others. You could find yourself attracting (or attracted to) more creative or spiritual sorts of people these days.

Virgo (August 24-September 22)

Legal and financial transactions need careful thought. Check them so there aren't any loopholes. You might discover one ambiguity just in the nick of time. It's not a month in which your personal projects, needs and desires are easily met, or even an issue on the table. You are focusing on your close personal relationships.

Libra (September 24-October 22)

If you're single, a new partner could enter the scene. It's a month when you will be putting other people's needs before your own. Be careful, because money matters are complicated at the beginning of the month, but the end of the month brings stellar opportunities for love.

Scorpio (October 23-November 21)

New job opportunities are likely. Although you might like to be part of a new scheme, you will want to learn a bit more before you commit yourself. Romantic and creative excitements is in store for you this month, but do not lose sight of personal business affairs.

Sagittarius (November 22-December 21)

Fun activities are plentiful this April especially during the first half of the month. But are you spending more on entertaining than you should? Curb your extravagant impulses and focus your attention on work. Fortunate events surrounding your home and family are likely to happen at the beginning of the month.

Capricorn (December 22-January 19)

There is a lot going on in your social world, but at the same time, you have a number of commitments to your family. Friends want you to join them but if you're tied to your home, perhaps they might have to come to you, instead!

Aquarius (January 20-February 18)

Involvement in your local community will bring unexpected rewards. A communication will bring news to seriously consider. After the 19th, make time for a creative hobby that will benefit you and your friends. Communications are strong, and love may even come through them.

Pisces (February 19-March 20)

Money affairs seem to be quite sensitive at the moment. This may have something to do with social arrangements or activities going on in your neighborhood. People are coming together financially but this could be hard on your relationships.

Dear Ani and Maggie offer excellent advice

ANI AND MAGGIE

Staff Reporters

Ani and Maggie,

I know this sounds so clichéd, but I'm completely in love with one of my friends. I know what you're thinking when I say that, this is high school and I don't know what it means to be in love. I don't have a better word for it. It's more than like, I can guarantee that. She's an amazing person to be around and whenever she and I are together we can't stop laughing with each other. I just love seeing her be happy, seeing her smile. The problem is that she considers me an older brother. "Older brothers" don't get attracted to "little sisters." I don't think she realizes how much it hurts me to be around her and know that nothing will happen when I want something to happen so badly. I can't tell her how much it hurts because I've spent the past couple months trying to prevent rifts in our friendship after the first one almost pushed her away from me. She knows that I have feelings for her, yet she continues to do things that keep me at just the right distance that I know nothing can happen, but always keeps me around.

The Romeo She'll Never Know

Dear Romeo,
From what you've said, it sounds as though your friend knows your feelings and doesn't return them. While it's possible that this could change, it's not advisable to wait around for that to happen. You need to decide if your friendship with her is meaningful enough to maintain even if you have to deal with the pain of her not returning your romantic feelings. If you want to continue the friendship, try branching out to others, too. Talk to people you haven't talked to before and see if you can meet someone new who feels the same way about you as you do about them. If you're willing to risk the friendship over your feelings, try talking to her. It would be hard, but it would help both of you understand the other's point of view better. Even if it doesn't lead to a romance, it could lead to you two knowing what the other needs to make the friendship survive. Let her know what she does that makes the situation hard for you, and she'll likely give you some pointers, too. We wish you the best of luck with whatever decision you make!

"I used to a few years ago and it got obsessive, so I stopped. I actually eat less when I'm not counting calories," a female senior said.

Opinions were mixed about whether students felt pressure to exercise or about their eating habits. Many of those who did feel pressure said it came from peers or the media.

"People will judge you based on your appearance and also you will compare yourself to other people with 'the perfect body,'" a female freshman said.

Most people reported the pressure being self-inflicted, and many are realizing that this is often the case.

"I do [feel pressure], but a lot less pressure than before. I am comfortable with my body now—finally," a female senior said.
