Always Fighting for Oregon's Working Families

Dear Fellow Oregonian:

Oregon was the first state to vote to recognize Labor Day in honor of the working men, women and families that built our state and our communities. That's something to be proud of.

I am also proud that throughout my public career, I have fought for the needs, interests and rights of Oregon's workers. And I am ever grateful for the support that labor has offered me in return.

My pledge to you is that I will keep fighting — to create good jobs, increase wages for all Oregonians, deliver affordable health care for all families, to honor the rights of workers and protect their role in the workplace.

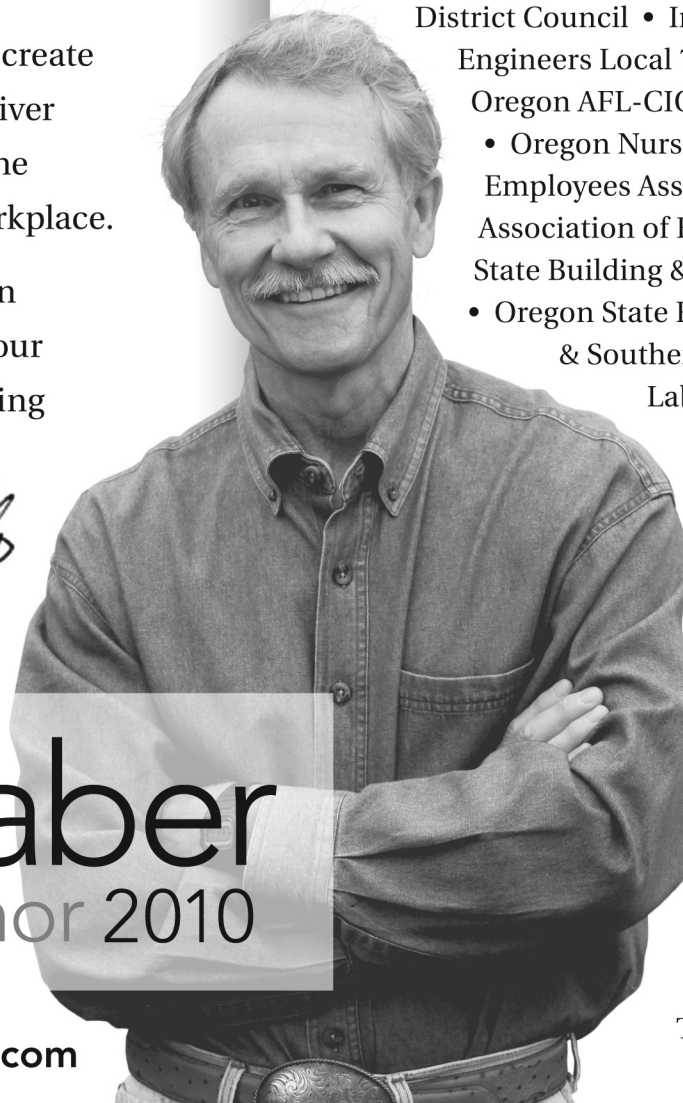

But I can't do it alone. This is something we are in together. Let's enjoy Labor Day, and then renew our common cause of standing up for Oregon's working families.
